City, Union Confident Strike Off

ACTING MAYOR DOWELL
... statement expected

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell is expected to announce today that the city's 250-man outside staff has accepted a wage settlement, avoiding a strike.

Both union and city hall spokesmen yesterday were confident the workers would accept the city's latest offer at a meeting last night.

Union president William Wild refused to comment after the meeting, saying he should speak to Acting Mayor Dowell first.

Before the meeting, Mr. Wild felt sure the offer would be accepted.

"They have been very fair this time," he said. "I am just as pleased as the mayor was about Monday's meeting with a conciliation officer."

Last reported city offer was approximately nine cents an hour more. Workers then were seeking a 19-cent pay hike.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's home here was entered by thieves sometime during a 10-day period ending last Friday.

If anything was stolen, it won't be known until the Diefenbakers can check.

Feeling Great to Be Alive

Obviously happy, and finding his amazing good luck hard to believe, Thomas Alexander, 430 Niagara, tells two of his nurses how glad he is to be alive after being run over by double wheels of five-ton

Five-Ton Trailer Van Passed Over His Body

Monday afternoon Thomas Alexander, 22, 430 Niagara, was run over by double wheels of a five-ton trailer van. Miraculously, he lived—and yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital he described his feelings to Colonist reporter Erith M. Smith.

By THOMAS ALEXANDER
Someone was looking after me.

When those two big wheels hit my body 101 things flashed through my mind. Now I can't remember any of them. I'm just terribly lucky.

They took X-rays yesterday, and today the doctor came in and told me there was no sign of any broken bones, or of any internal injuries.

I was lying right under the double rear wheel, on my back, tightening the nut in the air-brake tank. I heard the motor start, and knew what could happen. I decided to roll over and try to get out.

I rolled over all right, but that's as far as I got before the wheels caught me. They went right over, one across the small of my back, the other over the tops of my thighs.

Thoughts of Our Baby

That's when those 101 things flashed through my mind—thoughts of my wife, and our baby boy Bruce, and I don't know what all else.

Why nothing was broken, or I'm not dead, I don't know. Perhaps it was because the ground-surface there at Heaney's is hard-packed dirt, oiled over, and not pavement.

At that, though, I was lying on some bricks. I just don't know.

Cloaked by Ottawa Says U.S. Report

OTTAWA (CP) — An American publication says Gen. Earle Partridge, American commander of the North American Air Defence Command, has been prevented by the Canadian government from talking to the press in this country.

It also says the Canadian government insisted that U.S. Air Force officers attached to the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., be listed as "liaison officers" and that they wear civilian clothes.

The monthly technical magazine Data, published in Washington, says its information was "submitted" to it by a ranking officer in NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command. It did not say whether the officer was American or Canadian.

NO CONFERENCE

There was no immediate government comment.

The magazine says:

"When Gen. Partridge was named as commander-in-chief, NORAD, he was held back from visiting Canada for some time by the Diefenbaker government, and when he was finally permitted to come in for purposes of protocol, paying-respects visits, he was timed by the Canadians to arrive around 10 p.m., was told he could not be met by the press and that he would give no press conference."

GLARING CONTRAST

"This was in glaring contrast to the treatment accorded Americans like Eisenhower, Gruenther and Norstad who had similar relationships to Canadian elements in NATO."

"To this date (April, 1959), Gen. Partridge has never been permitted a press conference in Canada, although he has been there several times."

"He met the Canadian press only once, at NORAD headquarters, when last November the government finally permitted a press trip into the U.S. for this purpose."

At another point, the magazine says:

"Under NORAD, one of the eight or nine geographical regions of defence will be the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., which will be headed by an RCAF air vice-marshal who will have an integrated staff of U.S. Air Force and RCAF officers."

"When Canada agreed to this, they also admonished NORAD that the more than a dozen USAF officers involved initially would come to Canada as 'liaison officers' in civilian clothes."

"The implications were that this would be of politically dangerous import to indicate a U.S. infiltration."

Man Rescued From Bridge

City police scrambled atop Johnson Street bridge early this morning to save an unidentified man who is believed to have intended to jump from the bridge.

A fire truck was called to the scene to render assistance, shortly after 1 a.m., but police cornered the man on top of the bridge's huge concrete counter-balance and the fire truck was not needed.

Crew Fights Officers Over Beer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 10,000-ton Norwegian freighter Hoegh Silvercrest sailed for nearby New Westminster Tuesday night when 20 crew members returned to the ship after a three-hour walkout over a case of beer.

The walkout followed a fight between officers and crew members which was stopped by police. One seaman was taken into custody.

The fight started only 30 minutes before the Silvercrest was due to leave Vancouver harbor when the first mate attempted to confiscate a case of beer the second cook had brought aboard the ship, contrary to regulations.

Ike-Gromyko Talk Possible In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower may meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko and other foreign diplomats while they are here for the funeral of former secretary of state John Foster Dulles, it was disclosed.

The president definitely will confer with German Chancellor Adenauer.

He also scheduled a morning meeting with visiting Prime Minister Menzies of Australia.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

An American businessman, Robert S. Lieber, Jr., of Nampa, Idaho, writes to say he doesn't like the way his government turned down low bids from Canadian and British firms.

Mr. Lieber is referring to the incident in which the U.S. Army refused a Canadian tender for electrical generators and accepted an American one that was $3,000,000 higher. The decision was made after pressure from U.S. manufacturers.

Mr. Lieber, president of a firm that manufactures house trailers, has this to say:

"It is the moral responsibility of a firm that extends bids to accept the least bid, if that bid meets the specifications of the material desired. To do otherwise completely defeats the bid method of purchasing."

Better Products for Americans

"Product development and better means of production have been largely the result of necessity and competition, and it is my feeling that foreign competition can be a healthy influence on American firms and pay off in better products for the American public."

"A look at our automobile market is a good example. Fine European automobiles are forcing many American manufacturers to improve their products in order to meet international competition. This directly benefits the American public.

"Let me close by saying that American dirt is just as dirty as Canadian dirt, and to a good American as to a good Canadian, the same dirt will appear dirty."

If all American manufacturers were as fair-minded as Mr. Lieber, relations between the United States and other countries would be more cordial.

Surely It's a Mutual Benefit

Another missive has come to me from the citizen who is campaigning to have all dogs and cats de-sexed. This reader writes, in part, as follows:

"If an animal is spayed or neutered early in life, there is no frustration, and surely it is to the mutual benefit of animal and owner and there can be nothing to boggle at."

"Moreover, the time must come when the diseased, the criminal and the mentally unsound will be restrained from swamping the world with the hopelessly unfit."

"Medical men with vision know this is long overdue, but there are so many 'poor dears' and 'what a shamers' and other obstructionists that those who could and should legislate on the matter have their hands tied..."

Lacrosse Player's Hearing

Did Steering Flaw Cause Fatal Flip?

Suggestion that a steering mechanism flaw might have caused an accident May 3 on the Malahat which brought fatal injury to lacrosse player James Richard "Pee-wee" Bradshaw was heard as a preliminary hearing in provincial police court here yesterday.

James Leonard McNulty, also a lacrosse player and lifelong friend of Bradshaw, is charged with criminal negligence.

Hearing will be concluded in Cobwood police court this afternoon.

BRAKES GOOD

James V. Haslam of Haslam's Auto Wrecking, 2314 Millstream, told court he'd examined the car since the accident and found the brakes in good order.

"I found a lump in the middle of the steering," he said.

Asked for clarification, he said the "lump" was a point of resistance in the turn of the steering. It could have been caused by the accident, or could have developed at any time.

MIGHT OVERSTEER

He said it might tend to make a driver oversteer to get past the "lump."

Matthew Ramage, 4030 Braefoot, said he was driving north on the Malahat on May 3 when, a short distance this side of the southern cutoff to Shawinigan Lake, he saw a car approaching doing "about 50."

When he looked at the car again, it was up against the guard rail off its own side of the highway. Then it "just seemed to hop over" the rail, flipped on its right side, and went into the ditch.

Ramage said he stopped, looked over, and at first saw only Bradshaw lying by the car. He tried to flag down passing cars for help, in vain, so went and telephoned himself.

Const. H. E. Jenkins, Cobwood RCMP, said when he arrived on the scene he found the car in the ditch and the two men, one sitting, the other lying face down.

The officer took the registration slip from the car, which showed it belonged to Bradshaw, and asked the seated man if he was Bradshaw.

The other indicated the man lying down as owner of the car.

"Who was driving?" the officer said he asked.

"I was," said the seated man, identified as McNulty. Bradshaw's injuries included fracture of two vertebrae, partial cutting of the spinal cord, torn spleen and partial severance of the left kidney.

LATE PARTY

Reginald E. Dorman and Irvin Morelli, both of Nanaimo, said they had been in company with accused and Bradshaw all the night before—at a lacrosse game in which Morelli and McNulty played; at a party at the Nanaimo Curling Rink; then at the Dorman home and finally at Morelli's home, where they all had coffee and sandwiches.

Both agreed there had been drinking, but said McNulty had had only a few beers.

Morelli told the hearing that McNulty and Bradshaw left his home for Victoria at about 6:30 or 6:45 a.m. May 3, with McNulty driving Bradshaw's car.

Tobacco Radioactive, Polish Scientists Claim

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Polish scientists believe tobacco smoke causes cancer because it contains radioactive carbon-14.

Researchers J. R. Chojnowski and A. Dorabalska said the tobacco plant has the ability to concentrate radioactive carbon-14 from the air.

When tobacco is burned, the carbon-14 is converted into smoke. If inhaled, the smoke carries the radioactive material into the lungs.

The Polish scientists concluded that "because of its capacity selectively to concentrate carbon-14, tobacco smoke is cancer-causing."

Carbon-14 is one of the radioactive materials thrown into the atmosphere by nuclear bomb tests. It also is present as a result of cosmic ray bombardment of atmospheric nitrogen.

Other scientists recently have reported ability of some

Britain Plays It Safe

SHARP dispute between two of the armed services of the United States over the effectiveness of a program of defence against missile attack based on the Bomarc rocket system is none too encouraging in the light of Canada's recent adoption of a similar program. The U.S. air force is at odds with the U.S. army principally over the issue of defence, although the technical ramifications of the argument go deeper. Canada has contracted for two Bomarc missile stations as part of the defence ring of the North American Continent. Located in the east they will be part of the continental defence system, although limited in range to two comparatively small areas.

The prime question in this country is not so much the effectiveness of the Bomarc or other comparable missile in a theoretical attack, but how this decision will affect Canada's other commitments at home and abroad. Training ground teams on automatic air missiles will not project future air crews. The Dominion has a substantial flying force abroad in active service in Europe. If there is to be no further projection of flight training on advanced aircraft, can such a force be maintained at its present high standards and what of the reserve squadrons coming along behind Canada's first line on the intermediate aircraft of the day? On both coasts there is also the issue of air support to naval services of a nature that can also defend itself in the air.

It can scarcely be without significance that Britain, while adopting the new missile form of defence, elected to retain advanced, manned fighter aircraft as long as there are manned bombers capable of reaching her shores. Four months ago the United Kingdom government laid down a $550,000,000 program to build manned jet fighters of the latest improved design, and will equip the RAF with these machines in 1965. For a country that has experienced savage air attack in all of its reality, that is playing it safe. It has yet to be established that the air missile alone can stop either missile or manned aircraft attacks that are pressed home. For some years to come the advanced fighter would appear to have its place in defence thinking.

As things are, the advanced jet fighter is the only means of meeting manpower in the air with manpower; while retaining its ability to evade radar screens by low-level forays in counter-attack. Britain's action in keeping her fighter screens for the next ten years may be costly, but it is insurance of a nature that could not be obtained in a hurry if allowed to lapse. There is room for thought on that aspect of the situation.

Hidden Danger

PAINFULLY hurt as some of them were, the men and women dropped 10 feet into a concrete cellar when the steps of a church at Brentwood gave way are fortunate in one respect—that their injuries were not more serious. But there is less comfort for them to draw from the fact that they were the victims of a rare mishap, because accidents of that type should never occur in public or semi-public buildings.

As an explanation the statement that the church steps "seemed solid enough but couldn't stand the undue amount of weight" is hardly adequate. The entrance to a church should be able to withstand much more weight than was imposed in this instance, since it is customary for wedding guests to gather there to salute the bride and groom as they leave the building.

Appearances can be deceiving, as they were here. When steps are of wooden construction and exposed to the weather they should be inspected frequently, even if removal of some of the treasurers is necessary to permit examination of the supports. If proper ventilation is lacking there is all the more reason for care, since not gets its start and spreads rapidly in airless spaces. A fire marshal's inspection is not the same as an examination of structural conditions.

This most unfortunate occurrence should serve as a warning to municipal authorities and the owners of public buildings not to trust the outward appearance of wooden structures called upon to support human weight. Nowadays the practice is to build steps of concrete, but some of the earlier buildings have reached an age when the condition of their foundations, floors and entrances should be suspect. Whether or not they are safe can be determined only by periodic examination by qualified inspectors.

Well Off the Beam

HAPPILY the Esquimalt Council had more wit than its member who suggested a by-law to prevent motorists giving other people a ride, and paid no attention. It would be a sorry day if any such idea took hold. Probably there are too many young persons trying to hitch-hike, especially within town areas, and it would be good for their legs if they walked. If a man's home is no longer his own exclusive castle, however, he should still be free to give someone a lift in his car.

The proponent of this strange notion claimed that motorists deprive the B.C. Electric of revenue when they pick up a free passenger. There can be no guarantee that the hitch-hiker would take a bus if his bid for a car ride went unanswered. Even if there were there is no obligation on anyone to keep the transit company out of the red by attempting to force someone else to use the bus. As well pass a law to compel people to buy so much candy every week, or to prevent a reader of a magazine or newspaper from passing his copy of the journal along to another person.

There is perhaps too great a tendency for individuals who don't like something to want compulsion to put an end to it. The freedoms of modern society are constantly being nibbled at, so that in some ways individuals are much less free than their grandfathers were. The car driver himself is hedged by numerous restrictions, and of necessity he must conform to laws governing traffic, speed and mechanical safety. He must surely be left alone to decide whether he may give a friend or a stranger a lift.

The problems of the B.C. Electric and its buses are of concern to the whole community, for this public service is vital to many people. These are not to be solved by compulsory legislation, however, nor is a motorist to be denied the right to make a gracious gesture if he so desires.

Interpreting the News

Manned Fighters Retained

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALTHOUGH missiles are gradually taking over as Britain's chief air weapon, the end of the manned fighter era is nowhere in sight.

In fact, say defence ministry spokesmen in London, the manned fighter will be required indefinitely—"until missiles learn to make positive identification of aircraft." They also say manned aircraft are the only weapons that can hedge-hop into enemy territory without being spotted by radar.

British defence planners took a long look at the future of manned aircraft before deciding that the new TSR-2 fighter-bomber should be brought into production about 1965 at a cost of £200,000,000. They made the decision about four months ago.

It will be about 1967 before the RAF is equipped with a full complement of TSR-2s. Since defence spokesmen say the aircraft will be in service "for a good many years" this means that Britain's manned fighter planes should be going strong until 1975, even if no additional models are designed.

The TSR-2 will be essentially low-level aircraft which Defence Minister Duncan Sandys has described as "highly suitable for limited war operations."

It will be capable of high-altitude all-weather performance and will carry air-to-air missiles. It will also have space for an atomic bomb, and will take off from 600-yard unsurfaced runways.

Defence spokesmen describe the TSR-2 as a "completely versatile aircraft, capable of doing any job."

The need for manned aircraft was brought out sharply at the time of the 1956 Suez action when British pilots were ordered to destroy military installations without striking nearby towns. Pilotless missiles, say the defence planners, could never accomplish such a mission without large-scale destruction.

Manned aircraft appear to be winning renewed favor in some other European countries because of their ability, by changing height, at random, to sneak under the radar screens. Both French and West German defence spokesmen have publicly pointed out the advantages of aircraft over missiles.

Letter from London

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHILE we ate, the Rotary Club orchestra—the only one extant of its kind, I believe—played a tune that made my mind pay no attention to the food. Food doesn't trouble me, fortunately, so I could fly mentally away while playing my fork. The tune's name escapes me but, naturally, it was a love song.

Other kinds are hard to find, although this was an old one. Jack Buchanan sang it in my hearing—something about a woman's eyes telling yes or no—and now the Rotary orchestra revived him.

He died last year, but some of you would see him a while back with Jeanette MacDonald—"Monte Carlo." I think—whom one doesn't see or hear much from in 1959 but a pretty lass withal. Another lost figure is her opposite number of film musicals, Nelson Eddy. How they made colonial days across the line shine with glamour. In reality they wouldn't be so glamorous. Kenneth Robert's "Northwest Passage" brings that home, and a sad epilogue it was for its gallant major to end up in Newgate. A blot on society, this prison, yet paradoxically with amenities quite unavailable—even at a price—in the prisons of our own day.

There are little circles lying deep in the mind, waiting to be tapped. A prisoner thrusting himself into focus is the "Prisoner of Zenda," once Lewis Stone while still enough of the matinee idol type, and, later, Ronald Coleman, whose suave still is open for engagement. Another prisoner is the Cardinal whom Alec Guinness played, a link in fancy with the Lions Gate Bridge in Vancouver, believe it or not. It was Guinness money which built it. And I understand that in the home works in Dublin men smell the bungs of beer barrels for a living. Some people do queer things, as the foregoing mélange discloses. But a sad world it would be if nobody did them.

Dr. Johnson, for instance, touched lampposts all the way along Fleet Street. He was an eccentric but he was a famous man into the bargain. You have to be both to get away with idiosyncrasy. He is a youngster yet, but Glenn Gould seems to have cottoned to the idea; if he couldn't play the piano like nobody's business, of course, he'd be sitting straight up on an orthodox stool. Dreadful to be deprived of both genius and eccentricity, however; life is then so commonplace. Perhaps it's just as well. There is no room for too many fancy folk at any one time.

There is scarce room for all the cars on city streets, either, and one of these days people will have to do a bit more walking. That seems certain. It will be a savior for the human frame, though; it will keep legs from dropping off. Everyone should walk, sometime. Along the waterfront near where I live, for example. If you were in Europe and saw a shoreline as pretty as ours you'd come home raving about it and the vista of snow-capped mountains. What's Switzerland got that we haven't got? You should visit Beacon Hill Park more often. So should I.

The road down from the park, too, is picturesque. It would be better travelling however if the CIDS were to fix up Douglas Street as they've done with Marine Drive. It would be easier then to get back to the Empress and the Rotary lunch before the orchestra stops playing that tune I mentioned. Ah, it's sounding the last sweet nostalgic note, and nobody has missed me. Wonderful where the mind can take one in a brief two or three minutes.

Britain has not yet experienced a television election. In any case when it comes it will be a very modest affair compared with other parts of the world, with the postmaster-general ensuring that the only unfairness will be to unestablished parties or unallied individuals. Under the present agreement political television programs have been allotted on the basis of the number of MPs allied to each party.

The Liberal party complains, of course, because its political program is limited to one or two during an election on the basis of the six survivors in Westminster. The Conservatives do best, but for all practical purposes they are equal with Labor. But if you happen to have joined a newly established party (we have not been told of one yet) or happen to be standing as an independent, you are as completely banned from the air—radio or television—as a royalist in Russia.

No one is really happy about it, and at one time there was some support for making the air free from political controversy. Then it was realized that that could never be achieved—all that would happen is that political controversy would become the monopoly of unprofessional politicians. The other alternative of providing air space for all prepared to pay for it was discarded as being just too undemocratic.

The recognized and budding politicians of all parties are now being groomed in television technique—almost in the same way as they train students in drama school. They learn how to smile sweetly, tilt the head at the right angle and avoid mannerisms likely to irritate the viewer. One gentleman is reputed to have dispensed with his National Health teeth and bought a complete set of uppers and lowers because his free teeth were too utilitarian to be glamorous on the "telly." And of course rival politicians watch each other like hawks.

In the recent municipal elections there was an outcry by the Conservatives because the socialists used one of their authorized "party political" sessions to extol Labor's virtues in municipal government and particularly its achievements in the city of Bristol. The Conservatives claimed that the socialists were not playing fair. It was never intended that political broadcasts on the telly should deal with municipal affairs—especially on the eve of the poll. Labor was equally cross. They could use their time in what way they wished. The fact that their broadcast came on the eve of the poll was the luck of the draw.

Now there is a deathly silence. Labor suffered the biggest municipal defeat in the country at Bristol. Half the socialist members of the council were thrown off it by the electors—and the councillor chosen for his television personality to extol the virtues of Labor in Bristol and in municipal affairs generally, and was given most time in the program, suffered the most devastating defeat of all. All of a sudden the politicians are wondering whether it is such a devastating advantage to be a television pin-up boy or girl—politically anyway.

The Bristol incident suggests, but does not of course prove, that the great viewing public is not so much the victim of television auto-suggestion as some would have us believe. It may sell breakfast cereals because people want breakfast cereals—but the average citizen is not so desperately keen on politics. He does not really want them—he has got to have them; and it can well be that disturbed by the histrionic abilities of candidates he decides negatively what he does not want.

The experts are wondering whether perhaps the fellow who tweaks his ear when talking or bites his nails when contemplating a tricky question does not emerge as a more human and tolerable person than a pale imitation of Gregory Peck or Elizabeth Taylor. Even more dreadful is the thought that it may be a good deal better if the politicians do not appear at all.

Television's Feet of Clay

A publisher has reported that the sales of books by a romantic author slumped considerably after he was persuaded to appear on television and revealed himself to be an awkward little man, definitely ugly. It seems as though his readers had believed him to be like the romantic heroes he created and reacted as though to a confidence trick.

Anyway the fun goes on—but no one is quite sure whether television is the all-powerful thing it is supposed to be. Actors, of course, have known it for a long time. It is true that the "telly" can create a legend and a fortune for a lavishly protruding Sabrina, that it may bring overnight notoriety to a nonentity; but it is no less true that it can ruin the reputation of an established actor, and damn a politician for an indiscretion.

The Bristol experience is making both parties do some serious rethinking about the political virtues of television—in Britain anyway.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

MOST of us inherit from our parents those physical or physiological characteristics that gave them, in general, their beliefs and attitudes. So we inherit also some bent towards our parents' beliefs and attitudes. For example, the children of fat, genial, happy-minded parents are likely to be fat, genial and happy-minded too. The children of lean and arrogant cranks are ten to one likely to grow up into lean and arrogant cranks.

Of course, there are all kinds of permutations and combinations, as for example when a lean arrogant crank of a man marries a nice little fat happy-minded woman. In such cases of this kind as I have been familiar with, you may get all lean arrogant cranks, all complacent fat happy souls, or else an assortment of both, which makes for a lot of fun in a family history.

But to deny that we inherit our natures as well as our physiology is one of those absurd hangovers from the anti-Hitler era. Most of us can trace the various personalities in our families back to some of our grandparents. If there is a fanatic in our family, sure as fate there was a fanatic of some kind among the grandparents or great-grandparents.

Therefore how absurd of us it is to claim that we choose to believe what we believe, that our opinions and attitudes are our own, selected by us with a sort of divine right. The chances are we are shaped for our beliefs, opinions and attitudes by those who gave us all our other shapes. We can be neither praised nor blamed for what we believe. We just can't help it. It isn't ours.

$58,000,000 Offer to Brewery

Playboy Financier Eyes Empire of Pubs

Energy Board Chief

Head of Federal Government's new national energy board will be Ian N. McKinnon, chairman of the Alberta oil and gas conservation board, Ottawa sources say.

He'd End 'Sawdust Days' In Hallowed Institutions

LONDON (UPI)—A playboy financier bid $58,000,000 for a British brewery and touched off a battle of millions calculated to shake the financial heart of the kingdom.

The bid came from dapper Charles Clure, born over a tailor shop in the slumish East End 54 years ago and now master of various companies worth more than $142,800,000.

Clure is the acknowledged genius of what the British call "the take-over bid." He buys quietly in the markets until he has an important stake in a company then makes an offer well above the market price to remaining shareholders.

His takeover bid for the biggest brewing group in Britain, Watney, Mann Ltd., with 3,700 pubs and liquor stores and the Coca Cola concession for the south of England, is the largest ever made.

The board of directors of the company promptly rejected the bid but a spokesman for Clure, whose champagne and caviar parties are as famous as his financial operations, said their move was not unexpected.

News of Clure's bid jumped the Watney, Mann shares almost $2.80 overnight from $7.15 to about $9.95.

Clure is the most spectacular of British postwar financial giants. He made his first fortune at 22 by rehabilitating the skating rink he patronized as a boy. At 26 he also owned the Prince of Wales, one of London's leading theatres.

When the war ended he went on a sensational buying spree. He acquired a chain of dress shops for $3,158,400, a shipbuilding firm for $11,000,000, a shoe firm for $12,260,000, another shoe group for $16,800,000 and a Scottish traction combine for $12,475,600.

His dedication to business does not hamper his social life. He once threw a big party to celebrate his wife's new gown from Dior. He entertains the Princess Margaret set, ambassadors, diplomats and show business luminaries.

One of Clure's avowed purposes is to end the "smoky, smelly sawdust days" in that hallowed British institution, the pub.

"We would make the pubs smaller and smarter to keep pace with the modern public," said Clure's assistant, Leonard Sainer.

committee was told by Paul Pelletier, commission member.

The CBC disclosed it has paid as much as $147,376 for an unsponsored two-hour Canadian television production—the opera "Peter Grimes," shown Jan. 13.

Trade Minister Churchill said signing of an Anglo-Soviet trade agreement "might have some bearing" on negotiations between Russia and Canada over a new pact.

Opposition to government-proposed increases in contributions to the unemployment insurance fund by employees and employers was expressed by the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

Art Smith (PC, Calgary) said that in the interest of the country's over-all prosperity the government needs authority to act fast against any dumping of cheap foreign oil in Canada.

Canada's textile workers, claiming their industry has been a "scapegoat" for government foreign policies, demanded that a rigid quota system be imposed on low-price textile imports.

Furtive 'Reefer' Child Killer?

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—An amateur trumpet player, Calvin Lewis, 27, whose furtive smoking of a reefer (marijuana cigarette) may have caused the death of his three young children, was charged yesterday with homicide by reckless conduct.

His wife, Bernice, 22, who stayed at a cocktail lounge jam session while her husband went back to their apartment for a smoke, was charged with criminal neglect.

Lewis admitted snuffing out the cigarette between his fingers. Then he left the apartment locking the door. The children were suffocated when the apartment caught fire.

His dedication to business does not hamper his social life. He once threw a big party to celebrate his wife's new gown from Dior. He entertains the Princess Margaret set, ambassadors, diplomats and show business luminaries.

Premier's Claim

'Richest' Dollar Costs Many Jobs

Chief cause of unemployment in Canada today is the premium dollar, Premier Bennett claimed yesterday.

"Our dollar shouldn't be priced as high as the richest country in the world," he said, pointing out the Canadian dollar is worth $1.05 in the United States.

"The right kind of government in Ottawa would bring the dollar down just like we brought the debt down," the premier said.

He said Canada has the greatest surplus of products, but abroad Canada only gets 95 cents on its dollar, which makes it hard to compete in world markets.

"If we had a 90-cent dollar we could get $1.10 because all world trade is based on U.S. dollars... then we would be able to compete."

"The premium Canadian dollar hurts export trade and that hurts business and workmen and creates unemployment," Premier Bennett said.

"We still haven't a proper financial policy in Ottawa... Canada hasn't a proper money market."

The premier reiterated that he is a provincial leader and does not seek federal leadership.

Army's Nike-Hercules Dud in Test, Says Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Army's Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missile, already involved in a hot interservice dispute, is reported to have been only 8 per cent effective against a mock air attack on Chicago last fall. Vice-Adm. E. T. Hayward, deputy chief of naval operations, said money spent on both the Nike-Hercules and Bomarc was being wasted. He said both would soon be obsolete.

'Fly-by-Night' Oil, Gas Men Pose Problem

OTTAWA — The new national energy board will consider the extent to which Canadians will participate in the building, operating and financing of proposed oil and natural gas transmission lines. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday.

"In addition," he said in the Commons, "it has to be considered whether to deny fly-by-night promoters, who risk nothing but the organization costs the opportunity to make tremendous profits, inordinate profits."

The Criminal Code probably will be amended at this session of Parliament to define as illegal obscene any book, picture, movie or other such material that unduly exploits sex or crime.

Facts before the government warrant "no uncertainty" over the future use of the Bomarc missile, said Defence Minister Pearkes. He said plans to feature the Bomarc in North American defence plans were unchanged.

Liberal MP Paul Hellyer suggested a novel use for Canada's five discarded Arrow jet interceptors—use them as test targets for the Bomarc ground-to-air guided missile.

M. J. Coldwell says the West must boost its aid if India is to overcome "appalling" conditions of poverty, malnutrition and disease.

"Indians are a proud people," said the CCF leader after a tour of India for the UN. "They do not seek and will not willingly receive our charity. What they need they wish to pay for."

Three Liberal members of the Commons industrial relations committee left its session in a body before it adjourned in protest at what they contended was an over-long sitting. They and majority Progressive Conservative members have fought over committee procedure for a week.

The civil service commission looks "very darkly" on any display of nepotism in the appointment of relatives of federal officials to civil service jobs, the Commons estimates.

Attacker Flees After Girl Knifes Him

VANCOUVER (CP)—A plucky young woman drove off a knife-wielding bedroom prowler Monday night and said later she was sure she wounded him with his own knife.

It was one of three molestings reported here during the night. The girl said she was in bed when the prowler awakened her by putting his hand over her mouth.

She stalled for time by suggesting a talk, then screamed and grabbed for the knife. The man, who was wearing one of the girl's own stockings as a mask, fled.

Alfie Is Home, Lucky to Live

'Be Proud of Your Scars, Son'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Alfie Grey is home for the summer holidays.

The 12-year-old Port Coquitlam lad, near death three months ago after 80 per cent of his body was burned when he touched a high-tension wire, came home to his family and his pets Monday.

"We brought him home because he was so homesick," said Alfred Grey, his father.

Behind the youngster were three months of skin graft operations, pain, loneliness and stiff hospital routine.

Ahead are more skin graft operations, after the joys of a summer holiday.

Alfie's nerves still have not healed and the lad can cut himself without feeling it.

But this knowledge was in the background when Alfie walked into his home to be greeted by his mother, three sisters and a brother.

In the yard his palamino, Charlotte, whinnied a greeting. Puddles, his spaniel, shivered with ecstasy and licked Alfie's new cowboy boots.

Alfie can walk and, although skin grafts restrict his arm movements, he is nimble enough to snatch a six-shooter from his sister Linda when she is not looking. His face is unscarred.

"I'm not going to bed until 10," he said. No one argued.

Mrs. Grey said: "He had to go to bed at eight in the kid's ward. He didn't like that very well."

80 Per Cent of Body Burned

'Be Proud of Your Scars, Son'

"He really grew while he was in there. His jeans used to be size 10 and now they're 12s. We had to get him a size larger boot."

Alfie's face does not reflect the pain he has been through. It is innocent, impish and boyish.

Monday he saw himself in a mirror for the first time.

"No girl will ever want to marry me, mommy."

His mother told him he was wrong.

"The scars are something to be proud of. Not many others have beaten death the way you have."

Alfie will sleep in a new postoperative bed. He will be tutored and his parents hope he will pass grade six this year.

He waited for sometime on his suitcase for his parents to come for him at the hospital. He wore a new cowboy outfit, although the shirt was harsh against the new skin of his torso.

He was happy to be home.

It Was 'Sagan Day' In French Courts

PARIS (UPI)—Young French novelist Francoise Sagan says a doctor who wants $2,000 from her for 95 visits need not have visited her so often.

"Most of these visits were manifestations of friendship pure and simple," Sagan's lawyer told a Paris court.

The physician, Andre Juvenel, has been trying to collect for surgery and post-operative care. He treated the 23-year-old writer after she almost lost her life in a car accident three years ago.

Miss Sagan says the bill is excessive.

It was "Francoise Sagan Day" at the Palace of Justice. Before the hearing of Juvenel's suit, Miss Sagan and her lawyer appeared in a court of appeals.

Her lawyer demanded cancellation of an $80 fine levied against Miss Sagan for speeding, resulting in a car accident.

Author of "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile" claims bad roads, not high speed, caused her Aston-Martin sports car to overturn.

'Quiet' Retreat Runnymede In Dither

ENGLEFIELD GREEN, England (UPI)—The barons who forced King John to sign the Magna Carta on nearby Runnymede Meadows in 1215 are scarcely more upset than local residents.

Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher are moving into a "Hollywood style" converted farmhouse, the 15-room Crown House, rented to the Fishers for a "quiet honeymoon" retreat while Liz makes a film in Britain.

"We cannot understand what all the fuss is about," said Mrs. Olive Young, who lives opposite the farmhouse. "Even the tradesmen have to have passes to get in. It's ridiculous."

'Hold Off New Prisons Till Delinquency Cured'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An appeal to the federal government to delay any huge prison-building program until it knows the cure for delinquency was made Tuesday at the Canadian Congress of Corrections.

William McGrath, executive secretary of the Canadian Corrections Association, said: "It is impossible to frame the cure before we know the disease."

Dr. P. A. H. Baan of Holland, regarded as one of the world's foremost experts on criminal psychology, recommended construction of psychotherapeutic communities rather than prisons.

Justice Minister Fulton said Monday Canada will build many new facilities over a period of years.

Dr. Baan said of all the people who have come before the courts in Holland—a country of 12,000,000—only 1,800 are in prison, and only 180 of these are serving more than three years.

Dr. Baan said the more imprisonment a man requires the more treatment he requires, and murder is no reason to put a man in prison.

In Holland, a man could be released immediately under supervision and might spend a year or two or as much as 10 years receiving treatment.

Garden Notes

Never So Glorious

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

There seems to be something of a tendency among gardeners to sound off continually about how much better were the plants of yesteryear than the fancy hybrids of today. Twenty years ago, plants were bigger, stronger, more resistant to disease, with clearer colors and more pleasing fragrance.

I find myself out of step with this view. I was just thinking yesterday that I have never seen such glorious examples of polyanthus primroses around town as the ones which bloomed this spring.

This may be imagination on my part, but to me the flowers seem bigger across, with more of them on each stem, and the colors have a sparkle to them which was missing in the old-time plants.

This may have been due to the weather, although I can't recall any exceptionally favorable conditions this last winter and spring. I am more inclined to think the improvement has been brought about by rigorous and ruthless selection on the part of the commercial growers, and by more intelligent breeding.

The Barnhaven "Silver Dollar" primroses from Oregon are especially fine, and while I am a great admirer of English and Scottish plantmen, I fear they have lost the leadership in polyanthus to the West Coast growers.

In most gardens it is necessary to shift polyanthus primroses twice a year. They need full sun during the fall, winter and early spring, but should be allowed to recover from the strain of flowering in a shady bed of rich, woody soil.

The shift into summer quarters should take place soon after flowering ceases, and you'll want to get them out of the spring beds in any case, to make room for the summer-flowering annuals.

The summer bed is really a convalescent home—a place where the plants can rest and take it easy while plumping up their roots for next year's flowering.

It should be shaded from the noon and afternoon sun, but not gloomy and overhung by low tree branches. Plenty of light overhead and a touch of direct sunshine in the morning is an advantage.

The bed should be dug over deeply—the plant roots go down deeper than you'd think—and it is a good idea to incorporate plenty of humus-forming material as you dig.

If you have a pile of leafmould, this is ideal, and you can dig in half a bucketful per square yard, plus a cupful of Vigoro. Failing leafmould, use old rotted manure or ripe compost.

I don't think it is such a hot idea to transfer all your plants, hollyhocks, to the summer bed. This is a good opportunity to do some selecting, scrapping those plants which produced poor flowers or inferior, wishy-washy colors.

A batch grown from seed is bound to produce some poor relations, and this is the time to give them the old heave-ho, and generally upgrade your collection.

Water each plant in as you plant it, using a pinch of Transplantone or a few drops of vitamin B1 in the water.

Polyanthus primroses need plenty of water during their recuperative period, and their summer bed should never be allowed to become dry. A mulch of peat moss between the plants helps keep the roots cool and moist, and encourages the production of new roots.

Conversation Piece

Curriculum: Utter Ignorance

Johnny Black can't read. He can't spell. He can't add, subtract, multiply or divide. He knows no history, no geography, no literature, no science. In short, he's utterly ignorant.

Johnny Black is an 18-year-old Negro boy who lives in Washington, D.C. He's just graduated from a public high school. His ignorance is the result of four years of education in what is known as the "fourth track."

What is the "fourth track?" It's the proud achievement of Dr. Carl Hansen, superintendent of Washington schools.

When the Washington schools were integrated in 1955, Dr. Hansen hit upon the bright idea of dividing all high school students into four "tracks"—an honors group, a college preparatory group, a general education group and a basic education group.

The division was roughly by IQ. The first track got a specially enriched curriculum, the second got the regular academic course, the third got some watered-down mishmash and the fourth apparently got nothing whatever.

At least it turned out after three years that their IQs actually had dropped since they were freshmen. Their "social concepts" score had gone down from 16 to 10, their natural science score from 19 to 17 and their "correctness of expression" score from 20 to 14. In other words, their so-called education in the "fourth track" left them dumber than they were to begin with.

No special survey is needed to find out who these children are. Washington is now 53 per cent Negro. The "fourth tracks" obviously are virtually all-colored, the honors course is probably all-white.

As any educator has known for many years, the IQ test is apt to favor children from cultured, well-to-do homes and to penalize children of poor minority groups. And as any educator also knows, the IQ invariably goes up whenever a child competes with brighter children in the same classroom.

Dr. Hansen has turned school integration in Washington into a mockery. He has taken the Negro children from their segregated, all-colored schools and put most of them into "fourth tracks"—which means, into educational slums.

I wonder whether Johnny Black's parents know what's been done to their boy. I wonder whether they realize that his four years at the fine integrated school have been a total waste—by actual tests.

And I wonder how Dr. Hansen feels about it all.

Occasionally he must pass by the Lincoln Memorial.

I wonder whether he dares to look up.

Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Al Capp is coming to Hollywood to pick out personally the most beautiful girls in the world for the Panama-Frank movie version of his "Lil Abner" creation. Peter Palmer, who played the leading role on Broadway, repeats in the film, with Tina Louise probably a repeater as Appassionata.

Maureen O'Hara has been discovered by Fidel Castro. The bearded gentleman and revolutionary was introduced to the Irish beauty while she was locationing in Havana with "Our Man in Havana" movie—following which he asked for a date. And who knows what can happen? Maureen is strong-minded and compassionate. Just what Cuba needs!

It's definite that John Huston will direct Marilyn Monroe in her next movie, "The Misfits," written for her by husband Arthur Miller. Miller will also have a new play on Broadway this fall.

The cast of 20th-Fox's "Can-Can" shapes up as follows: Louis Jourdan and Barrie Chase join Frank Sinatra, Shirley MacLaine and Maurice Chevalier.

Natalie Wood, who wanted to work with Sir Laurence Olivier in the film version of "The Entertainer," won't be able to. Late reports have Joan Collins in the role of Olivier's daughter.

Susan Hayward's Oscar winner, "I Want to Live," has finally been passed by the British censors, after some cuts. Britons will see it in London beginning in July, without the gas-chamber scene at the end.

Marlon Brando, who sees his son three or four times a week, would like to see him more often. I'm sure this will be no problem with ex-wife Anna Kashfi, who received more than half a million dollars in their divorce settlement. Both are raging over publication of photographs of little Christian in a fan magazine. They were taken by a friend of Anna's and never intended for publication. Moral: Beware of friends bearing cameras.

Business woman Esther Williams leaves early in June for London, Paris and points north, south and east, to promote her swimming pools. The weather over there isn't as good as here—but the swimming-pool habit is spreading.

Milt Berle bought his first permanent home in Beverly Hills—he and wife Ruth had been renting the Cy Howard house. They take possession in September after Uncle Miltie plays four weeks in Las Vegas.

Teen-agers' delight Sal Mineo was asked if his "A Private Affair" costar, Terry Moore, had sex appeal. He thought and thought, then said: "There's a reason why Terry has been around so long!"

membering the adage about leading through strength and up to weakness, East returned the diamond ten, won by declarer's ace, South now cashed the king and queen of diamonds, led a club to dummy's ace, and took three more clubs.

West criticized his partner for failing to lead a heart, which would, of course, have put him in to take two spade tricks and set the contract. West pointed out that his return, at trick three, of the spade king should have been obvious as a suit-preference signal, signifying an entry in the higher-ranking suit—namely hearts. If West had wanted a diamond return, he would have used the spade deuce to knock out South's ace—the low card to ask for the low suit.

East should have realized from the drop of the cards, especially South's spade nine at trick two, that West could use any spade for his third-round lead. Therefore, his choice of a message, and East's failure to read the message correctly resulted in a severe loss to his side.

Released by The Associated Newspapers

With a balanced hand—no singleton or void—North was right in jumping to three no-trump, ignoring his five-card minor suit. East played the spade queen at trick one, and South followed with the three-spot. The spade six was returned; declarer played the nine and West won the jack, and led back the king. South took this with the ace, and his club ten lost to East's king. Re-

'Tax-Taker' Happy to Go to Jail

KELOWNA (CP) — The theft of $47,000 in tax receipts from this Okanagan Valley centre 3½ years ago sent Jack Norman O'Neill to the penitentiary Tuesday for three years. And that is the way he wanted it.

Pleading guilty to the theft, the former city accountant asked for a term in the penitentiary, where he could learn a trade, rather than at a prison farm.

This way, explained defence counsel N. D. Mullins, O'Neill could learn a job in which there would be no temptation to steal money. The lawyer also asked Judge Gordon Lindsay to recommend psychiatric treatment for the 30-year-old clerk while he is in prison. His family offered to pay for the treatment. Judge Lindsay agreed to the request. O'Neill, he said, had been suffering from a severe mental disturbance at the time of his crime and "I feel his actions were completely unpremeditated."

O'Neill ended a three-month probationary term with the city of Kelowna, Oct. 17, 1955. The following day, he was allowed to take the city cash to the bank for the second time. He set off with $41,000 in cheques and $6,000 in cash. None of it reached the bank. A province-wide hunt was set off when police found the $41,000 in cheques in O'Neill's car at the Kelowna airport. They found the accountant had chartered a plane to Chilliwack, told the pilot he would return in two hours, and then disappeared.

O'Neill stopped off in Chicago. Ironically, his suitcase containing the stolen $6,000 was mislaid for a few days by the transportation company. He forged a cheque.

When the suitcase was found, O'Neill is believed to have gone to Miami, Fla., where he spent the money living in expensive hotels. Then justice caught up with him. He was convicted of forgery, spent three years in United States prisons, and was brought back to Kelowna for trial.

U.S. Joins Canada In Maritime Woes

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Bennett of San Francisco, president of the Marine Firemen's Union of the Pacific, painted a bleak picture of the maritime outlook for Canada and the United States Tuesday and called for government aid to combat increasing foreign competition.

American shipping activity has dropped sharply since 1957, Mr. Bennett said. "Let us not forget that the defeated nations of the Second World War—Japan, notably, but Germany, too—are building up their merchant marine fleets. This competition is going to hurt us badly some day if we are not ready to meet it."

Back home after a seven-day visit behind the iron curtain, which included a brush with Czech people's police, Victoria accountant G. Fitzpatrick Dunn admits he's more confused than ever about communism.

"I can tell you, after my trip to Czechoslovakia with the Vancouver Board of Trade goodwill trade mission, there are 52 British Columbians who in future will stand up straighter when 'O Canada' and 'God Save the Queen' are played," Mr. Dunn told the Colonist last night.

They found things like outboard motors are nowhere to be seen, cars are few, and a crowd of several hundred gathered to watch a demonstration of an automatic washer.

Yet in state-owned factories, workers who increase production are rewarded with trips to attractive holiday resorts.

They saw a people who appeared sullen and morose, yet were obviously healthy. And in a society where everyone works a six-day week of 46 hours, artists and musicians are among the highest paid.

Food was good—but expensive. Beef seems to have disappeared from shops in Prague, and coffee and tea is priced away above the means of the average working man.

"It would be presumptuous of me... to attempt to speak with authority of conditions behind the Iron Curtain," said Mr. Dunn. "But at all times I felt we were being closely watched."

It turned out he was, at least on one occasion, when an over-zealous Iron Curtain cop arrested him for taking a snapshot of a bicycle race in progress. He was released two hours later amid profuse apologies.

"I must admit I was confused about communism before I left on this trip," said Mr. Dunn. "But now I'm even more confused, if that is possible. It's very difficult for a Western mind to comprehend the oppressive atmosphere where there is no competition and everything is for the state."

By contrast, France, next stop for the B.C. trade mission on its 23-day trip, was almost overpowering in the vitality of its industrial growth.

At the Renault car works, with a production line said to be fastest in the world, a car rolls off every 28 seconds.

The group visited the Caravelle jet plant near Marseilles, and flew in a new gas-turbine helicopter.

They visited the port of Marseilles, where in 13 years the harbor has been virtually rebuilt, after the retreating Germans in 1945 destroyed every principal dock and bridge and left hulks of 129 sunken ships to be salvaged.

And, of course, Prague night spots are "very dull" compared with Paris.

North American Congress

Mayor Berlin-Bound

Mayor Percy Scurrah and Mrs. Scurrah are on their way to West Berlin, where Mayor Scurrah will attend a special congress of mayors from all over North America.

There was no announcement of Mayor Scurrah's plans before he left Victoria.

Together with other delegates to the congress, and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Scurrah will visit some of Europe's beauty spots before returning to Victoria.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said yesterday Mayor Scurrah will return to Victoria about the beginning of July. He stressed that Mayor Scurrah was paying the cost of the trip himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Scurrah left Victoria quietly yesterday morning for Ottawa, where Mr. Scurrah will join a Victoria delegation attempting to get more shipbuilding contracts for Victoria shipyards. Mayor Scurrah will attend a convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in North Bay, Ont., May 31 to June 3, and will then fly to Berlin.

The European conference will be held June 18 to 23.

Free Salk Shots Here Thursday

First and second shots of Salk vaccine will be given free of charge to persons between 18 and 40 tomorrow between 5 and 6 p.m. at Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit, 464 Gorge Road East. Medical health officer Dr. A. N. Beattie said those who wish to obtain poliomyelitis shots should phone EV 4-4101 for appointments.

Beauties of Beacon Hill

225 Artists Busy Soon

At least 225 young Victoria artists are expected to paint at least one picture of the beauties of Beacon Hill Park during a six-week art course starting June 29.

Ten classes of students, from six to 16 years old, are planned by the "Painting in the Parks" group of the Federation of Canadian Artists.

Enrolment period for the classes being held for the third season will be between June 1 and 21.

Supplies including paints, brushes, drawing boards, crayons, and other materials become the student's property on receipt of the $8 enrolment fee.

All classes during the six-week period will be held in Beacon Hill Park under supervision of competent art teachers, an official said yesterday.

Further information regarding the classes may be obtained from G. R. Williams at EV 2-4884.

Sewerage Complaints Probed in Esquimalt

Esquimalt municipal engineer John Graeme is investigating complaints that effluent from a sewerage disposal unit is draining from provincial government-owned land on Craigflower Road, into Esquimalt.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said yesterday it appeared the effluent came from a trailer camp on the Esquimalt Indian reserve.

If this is the case, Reeve Wurtele said, Esquimalt will expect the provincial government to instal sewerage and proper drainage in the area.

Cadets In Rite Tonight

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton told a meeting of Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association last night he had not come to fight with them over secession, but his audience had other ideas.

The mainly-hostile audience made a number of charges against Saanich council, including...

... money from the Cadboro Bay and Ten Mile Point areas is being spent in other areas of Saanich to gain votes for councillors.

LOSS OF FACE

Saanich council is afraid of the "loss of face" if the areas secede to Oak Bay.

The only police seen by local residents belong to Oak Bay; and Oak Bay will give better administration and services to the area, lowering taxes.

Levelling most of the charges were four men—Robin Dunsmuir, 2979 Sea View; Laurie Widene, 3760 Crestview; Andrew Wright, 3823 Mira Montes Drive, and Richard Wakeham, 3755 Crestview.

CHATTERTON FORCES

Reeve Chatterton's forces consisted of Coun. Leslie Passmore and Coun. Stanley Murphy.

Last night's meeting was originally called to enable Reeve Chatterton and Saanich engineer Neville Life to explain the new sewer bylaw which will be put to owner electors in the areas June 20.

Reeve Chatterton opened his comment on secession by speaking generally, ending by saying, "I don't think there is any good, valid reason for any part of Saanich municipality to secede to Oak Bay."

Mr. Dunsmuir began the criticism of Saanich council by telling Reeve Chatterton, "I think the main disadvantage to Saanich would be the loss of face and the loss of good money that is being spent elsewhere in Saanich to get votes for the councillors."

HIGH TAXES

Coun. Murphy pointed out that people who live in areas where land costs are high and houses are valuable must necessarily pay high taxes and the proportion of taxes returned would be less than in poorer sections of Saanich.

"You have just given us our best argument for secession," Mr. Dunsmuir claimed. "You have just said we are not getting our money's worth..."

Big enemy of Greater Victoria gardeners is the earwig which nibbles on tender, young shoots and mature plants.

Simple contraptions can be used to trap the earwig pests as demonstrated by Douglas Hawkes.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Unite, Victoria Gardeners!

Secret Scheme Afoot To Overthrow Earwig

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Gardeners of Greater Victoria, unite! You have nothing to lose but your earwigs.

City real estate man, Douglas T. Hawkes, 2713 Cavendish, yesterday released secret plans for the big putsch, formulated during recent nights spent in his garden, dusting young plants in an attempt to save them.

"If we had an earwig week and if everyone in Greater Victoria put up at least three traps each night and killed the catch in the morning, we could dwarf the population," he said yesterday.

Mr. Hawkes' secret weapon is a tin can, filled with paper, and put on top of a low post. Troops... cops, householders using the traps would simply burn the paper in the morning.

"You can't fight them yourself because there are millions of them," Mr. Hawkes said in a conspiratorial whisper. "But by all working together we could reduce them drastically."

Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the provincial museum, had a rueful comment to make last night when asked for his opinion of the scheme.

Garden Tyrant Doomed If All Co-operate

has no natural enemies and the population expands."

Main problem with the pests is their "eaten earth" system of warfare, nibbling tender green shoots as they appear above ground level and causing many gardeners to complain about the quality of the seeds they bought.

Dr. Carl recommended a length of bamboo for a trap, but warned that the earwigs have a secret weapon of their own—they produce several hatchlings each summer.

And, he added, they CAN fly—although they seldom do.

"An offensive would have to be kept up indefinitely to make it effective," Dr. Carl warned, "and everyone would have to co-operate."

Gardeners of Greater Victoria, unite...

One-Hour Blitz To Aid Solarium

A one-hour blitz by the Junior League in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium will be held on the evening of June 1.

Canvassers are needed for the Langford, Colwood and Royal Oak areas and volunteers may telephone EV 5-9701, EV 5-9702 or EV 4-9301.

Proceeds will be turned over to the Solarium for maintenance purposes. No goal has been set but a spokesman for the group said, "I hope we can do as well as last year when $21,098 was collected."

Tourist Trade in B.C.

500% Increase Seen in Decade

British Columbia's tourist trade will increase 500 per cent in the next decade, Premier Bennett predicted last night.

"Then it will be our greatest industry," he said.

The premier based his prediction on the great highway program completed and planned by his Social Credit government. So far, the province has repeatedly mooted a $1,000,000,000 highway program in the 1960s.

"When the highways are completed we will get flocks of people visiting B.C.," he said.

Cowichan Calves Bring 'Fantastic' Prices

By CHARLES THOMPSON

DUNCAN—Calves are being auctioned off here at "fantastic" prices.

Day-old Jersey feeder calves that used to sell for $1 each are now bringing from $8 to $15.

Holstein and Hereford day-

old calves are selling for from $20 to $50—two or three times what they cost at open sales a year ago.

Some farmers here say it is because a milk quota was imposed this spring, and that they might as well give their milk to calves to fatten them up as sell milk "for next to nothing" to be used for making ice cream or cottage cheese.

"Farmers on the island are reaping a harvest from cattle-men outside the province," said J. T. Boyles, until two months ago Vancouver Island's only government-licensed auctioneer.

"Recently I auctioned off two calves for a woman in Cowichan who knows quite a lot about prices," he said. "She came in for her money and my secretary told her they were sold for $14."

"The woman said, 'oh, that's a good price, $7 each.' When the girl explained she meant $14 each the woman almost dropped dead," said Mr. Boyles.

"The prices are fantastic. Yearlings feeder stock going for from $90 to $150 and Jersey veal calves six or seven weeks old for $48," he said.

The high prices are caused by Cariboo, Prairie and United States cattlemen coming here to replace their herds.

"In the Cariboo they had to sell whole herds because they couldn't afford feed during the last two winters. It has been so wet they couldn't take the hay off the land," Mr. Boyles said.

And because of a drought in Saskatchewan and freak snowstorms in United States areas, B.C. has been flooded with outside buyers, he said.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I'm sure my wife wrote that letter and signed herself "Size Ten." This reason she's a size 10 is because she runs herself skinny in the department stores spending my hard-earned money.

Sure, I'm a pot-bellied slob like she said, but I didn't put on those extra 50 pounds at home. The truth of the matter is, Ann, I got into this shape from eating rich foods in restaurants. My wife hates to cook and she refuses to fix meals. Furthermore, the last time she darned a sock it cost me $8 to have the needle removed from my toe.

Since my wife wants me to have a 34-inch waistline, I'd like to ask her a question. Why doesn't she stay at home and prepare the kind of food I should be eating? — FAT STUFF.

Real Sneaky Trick

Dear Ann: Of all the sneaky tricks, Size Ten Wife takes the cake. In the first place, she's not a size 10—she's a 12. I know, because she's my wife.

For years she's been nagging me to lose weight. I'm perfectly satisfied with things as they are. I'm the informal type who likes to "sit loose." She keeps insisting the "fat is crowding my heart" and she's always showing me insurance statistics.

In the meantime, she's got herself so cosseted in and strapped up I don't see how she can breathe. Last week she bought a new French contraption that looks like a Seland harness. It pushes her up, flattens her out and creates optical illusions.

I suppose a woman who has steel knives sticking into her rib-cage has to take her agony out on someone. But it's a low trick when a wife writes to a newspaper just so she can insult her husband.

Of course you'll never print this letter because you always side with the women. By the way, I have a hunch that picture you run with your column is 20 years old. How much do you weigh? Doll? — TWO TON.

Dear Two Ton: The picture is recent and I weigh 108 pounds soaking wet with a rock in my hand. Any more questions? — THE DOLL.

Loved Every Ounce

Dear Ann Landers: I'd give anything to change places with Size Ten Wife. She complained because her husband has "30 pounds of groceries hanging over his belt."

I lost my wonderful man five months ago. He weighed 230 pounds and I loved every ounce of him. No joy in this world can equal hearing a man say "Honey, you're the best cook in the world." My how he loved to eat! He knew everything I made was seasoned with love!

If Size Ten loved her husband as I loved mine she wouldn't care how much he weighed. She should stop counting his calories and start counting her blessings. — MISSING HIM.

A last word to all of you about excess weight. More people have killed themselves with a fork than any other weapon.

A loving wife does her husband no favor when she plies him with calorie-laden sauces and rich desserts. True, a woman can't police her guy 24-hours a day. If he wants

Quebec City Bans Shorts

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—City council has approved in principle a ban on the wearing of shorts, not only in public places but on private property exposed to public view.

The regulation would prohibit any sun-dresses without jackets, bathing suits and shorts, except the Bermuda type, reaching to within two inches of the knee.

Things Looking Up For 'Mom' Whyte

TORONTO (UPI)—Things are looking brighter for Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, a woman who has cared for 1,000 children in 10 years, and for part of the time without the sanction of the law.

An official of the Ontario Welfare Department said plans are underway to incorporate her sprawling 50-acre farm home near Bowmanville, Ont., 40 miles east of Toronto, as a mission for children.

That will make her eligible for construction grants of up to $250,000, as well as continuing grants of $8 per month per child.

Surviving Quints Loathe Limelight

MONTREAL (CP)—The four surviving Dionne quintuplets, once Canada's most publicized babies, now are young women with a healthy loathing for the limelight.

They want to be left alone, they say, but people keep pestering them for details of their private lives.

Their 25th birthday comes up Thursday, and the quintuplets wish people would forget it. Every event—births, birthdays and marriages—means an onslaught by reporters. The four surviving quintuplets make themselves scarce by living quietly, with unlisted telephone numbers.

Only once in the last months has one of the quintuplets ventured a public appearance. That was when Cecile appeared in a picket line in front of the CBC building in downtown Montreal during the television producer's strike. Her husband, Philippe Langlois, is a CBC television technician. The quintuplets' chances of complete escape from publicity are slight: Their births—a one-in-50,000,000 chance—rank them with the best known and most photographed of Canadians.

MR. and MRS. BERNARD H. ATKINS

Atkins-Graham

White Peonies Adorn Church

White peonies graced Brentwood College Memorial Chapel for the Saturday wedding which united Catherine Helen Graham and Bernard H. Atkins.

The Rev. George Harrington performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Graham, of Glasgow, Scotland, and the late Kenneth Graham, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Atkins, of Surrey, England.

The groom is a former pupil at the college.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. William M. Graham, and the groom both worked in the B.C. government photography branch.

For her wedding day, Miss Graham chose a ballerina-length gown in a classic design of white brocade with three-quarter-length sleeves and V-neckline. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a V-shaped tulle headpiece and she carried a cascade of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Matron of honor, Mrs. William Scott, wore cornflower blue in a ballerina frock of nylon organza with pink carnations and white marguerites in her bouquet.

Mr. Richard Colby was best man, and ushers were Mr. Maurice A. W. Atkins and Mr. Michael D. H. Atkins, the groom's brothers.

Following a reception at Brentia Lodge the couple left on their honeymoon to the Interior.

Klies-Clark

A pretty wedding was solemnized in James Bay, United Church recently when Marilyn Jean Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Clark, 3575 Maplewood Road, Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Donald Roger Klies, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Klies, 470 Gorge Road, Victoria.

Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a gown of imported embroidered tulle over satin fashioned with long torso and Sabrina neckline. Tiny rows of tulle made a bustle effect at the back. Her veil of illusion net was held in place by a coronet of bugle beads and diamonds.

Kinghorn-Ferguson

With her grandmother's ring as "something old," Miss Deanna Jean Ferguson was united in marriage with Wayne Gordon Kinghorn at the Brentwood United Church recently.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Ferguson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Ferguson of Sluggert Road and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kinghorn of West Saanich Road, Sidney.

Dr. A. K. McMinn of Victoria officiated.

The bride chose a gown of oyster white brocade faille in afternoon length with a bouffant skirt, square neckline and lily-point sleeves. Her illusion veil was held with a matching bandeau trimmed in white flowers and she carried an all-white bouquet of carnations, stephanotis and lily of the valley.

Attendant for the bride, Miss Doreen Bickford, wore a small pink taffeta gown similar to that of the bride and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Best man was Mr. Bruce Elvedahl and Mr. Robert Orcutt and Mr. Gary Rogers were the ushers.

Following a reception at Brentia Lodge, where the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. D. D. Fraser of Salt Spring, the bride changed to a rose Blin and Blin suit with white accessories and the couple left on an Island honeymoon.

On their return, they will live in Sidney.

Garden Party Set for July

Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter, IOOE, recently discussed plans for a garden party to be held in July at the home of the regent, Mrs. H. D. Parizeau, 935 Richmond Avenue. Still Plenty of Hope For 'Mousey' Women

LONDON (Reuters)—Eight million mouse-haired British women were assured they could confidently join red-heads and brunettes as challengers to the tottering belief that gentlemen prefer blondes.

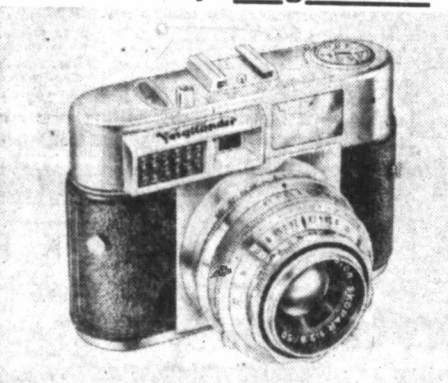

According to Eric Nagale, president of the Hairdressing Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association, "mousey" should never let the strong, dominant coloring of other women steal the social limelight and the dates.

Big advances in hair coloring preparations will give her something for every hat, dress, occasion and mood, he promised in a speech at the opening of a hairdressing exhibition here.

Her days of social handicap are over and she no longer faces the frustration of being a nondescript in-between.

Victoria Sketch Club Marks 50th Birthday

One of the oldest groups in Victoria, the Victoria Sketch Club, which grew out of the Island Arts and Crafts, will celebrate its 50th anniversary on June 4.

To mark the occasion, the group will hold a three-day exhibition beginning with a presentation tea on June 4th at 3 p.m.

Mrs. Frank M. Ross, will officially open the show and be presented with an original sketch by Miss Maude Lettice.

It is expected over 150 sketches will be on display in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company. Some paintings may also be exhibited by members of the original Arts and Crafts.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Now... no under wire to chafe you!

Carefree Strapless "Confidential"

"Confidential" Longline strapless style 385, $24 to $28, $7.95

"Confidential" Brassiere style 385, $24 to $28, $5.50

Under the sun, and under the moon... or anytime... fashion demands the youthful, carefree curves of a "Confidential" (contour) strapless. Light padding of this foam rubber moulds a smooth natural contour. No under wire to chafe you... glorious strapless comfort. No slips, no shifts, to worry you... "Confidential" stays snug and secure. Hidden "cuddle-stay" securely lifts and holds you in a high young line.

"Confidential" contour strapless bra 385, embroidered white cotton broadcloth with batiste elastic band, A 32-36, B 32-38, $5.00

Buildings Plugged In For Long-Distance

Socialite Murdered

CHICAGO (UPI) — A high school gym teacher, who married his pretty, socially prominent wife in 1951 when she was 16 only — to be divorced by her last month, has been charged with her murder.

Dead was Mrs. Susan Shambaugh Hansen, 24, mother of three, whose beaten body was found Sunday in the bedroom of her home. Police said she died of a broken neck.

Her ex-husband, Duncan Hansen, 28, had called the police. He said he went to his former wife's home in the morning to take the children to church.

Police immediately, however, investigated a neighbor's story that Hansen had been playing with the children an hour earlier than he said he arrived at the home.

Eight foreign exchange telephone lines for direct calls from the legislative buildings to Vancouver have been added to the legislative buildings' exchange.

"We will now spend less money on long distance calls and still be able to make more calls," a public works department spokesman said.

Any number of long distance calls may be made from certain offices at no extra cost per call.

As of June 15 a new telephone directory will be published for the legislative buildings in connection with installation of a new switchboard which makes way for 200 more telephone lines in the buildings. Local numbers will then reach four digits instead of three as they do now.

Ill. Winds Wafted That Foul Odor From U.S. Mill

A foul odor reported in many sections of Greater Victoria yesterday was blamed on freak winds blowing across Juan de Fuca Strait from Port Townsend pulp and paper mill.

City engineer James Garnett said a light four-mile-an-hour wind fanned the obnoxious smell across the strait.

Patrick Joseph O'Brien, no fixed address, was sentenced to four months in jail by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court yesterday, after conviction last Thursday on a charge of attempted break and entry.

O'Brien was found in the early hours of May 13 at the rear door of a Wharf Street building, where the transom had been broken open.

Two musical events take the stage at 8 p.m. tonight.

The 75-voice Mormon Youth Choir from Tremonton, Utah, will be heard at Central Junior High School while, following the 29th annual meeting of the Musical Art Society at Newstead Hall, there will be a program of items contributed by students.

Donald Menard, 723 Yates, was given a suspended sentence in city police court yesterday after pleading guilty to theft of a vacuum cleaner from Rexair Sales and Service Ltd.

Noting that it was Menard's first offence, Magistrate Ostler placed him under bond of $500 for six months. Menard had already spent 10 days in jail.

Farmers Demand Millions

OTTAWA (CP) — A 15-man committee of prairie farm leaders pressed again Tuesday for federal payment of some $300,000,000 in deficiency payments on Western grain.

There was no indication that their case made any further progress than when it was presented last March by a mass delegation of 1,000 western farmers.

"We didn't lose anything," said Jack Wasson, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, after a 2 1/4-hour meeting of the committee with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and some members of the federal cabinet.

Fight Arms Race, CCF Group Urged

Victoria CCF party headquarters yesterday received a letter from the Victoria branch of the Peace by Peaceful Means Society urging the party to support a policy of renouncing "military alliances of any kind."

The society called attention to recent editorials in Canadian magazines by such "responsible Canadian citizens" as Ralph Allen and J. R. McGeachy.

"Both make the point that after spending $20,000,000,000 on 'defence' since 1945, Canada is not only defenceless but has, in fact, become a military satellite of the United States," the letter said.

The society "strongly recommends" Canada withdraw from "gently but firmly" from the arms race and "spend our resources on constructive work for peace."

Dognapping
Claim Made

PORT ALBERNI—A claim that the poundkeeper pays "kids" 25 or 50 cents to round up dogs which he cannot catch himself was made by city employee Stan Wilson at council meeting Monday night.

Mr. Wilson said that his wife had been able to prevent a dognapping when one of the juvenile bounty seekers had tried to take the Wilson's pet from its own home yard.

Council will investigate the claim, Mayor Loran Jordan said, turning the complaint over to Ald. William Goddard.

At present councils of the Twin Cities are negotiating with the SPCA with the idea of having the organization administer animal control by laws.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joe Morris, president of the 28,000-member International Woodworkers of America, said Tuesday the union will show, before a conciliation board, that the B.C. coast lumber industry can pay a substantial wage increase without harming its competitive marketing position.

Earlier yesterday Forest Industrial Relations, representing the operators, had offered a wage increase totalling 12 cents over two years during recent negotiations.

Duncan Chamber Addressed

Sacred Layoffs Hit,
'Doesn't Make Sense'

DUNCAN — The Social Credit government was criticized here this week for laying off highway department employees to cut costs to become a debt-free province.

"It doesn't make sense," Russell Potter, Victoria consulting engineer, told the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

He said 17 men were laid off in Vancouver Island highways department branches when they could have been used for work on replacing wooden culverts with steel.

The government's "money-saving" policy is holding back a $100,000 plan for draining the Trans-Canada Highway four-block-long section where it runs through here.

While the government may be reducing the debt "we are not getting things done either," he said.

During heavy rain the highway area of the city floods when others do not.

Retrial in Duncan
On Assault Charge

DUNCAN—The county court trial of Richard Douglas, Chemainus, charged with causing bodily harm to an RCMP constable, will be heard here June 17.

He was convicted May 30, 1958, by Magistrate W. H. Bryant at Chemainus and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

An appeal was won earlier this year and a retrial ordered because the court stenographer died before he had time to transcribe the testimony from shorthand.

Last week Magistrate A. C. Sutton heard testimony at a preliminary hearing and upheld the charge.

Douglas is one of four charged after a wild Saturday night fracas at Chemainus a year ago. The others received jail terms.

With MacMillan and Bloedel

Port Alberni Tax Fight
In Supreme Court Soon

PORT ALBERNI — This city's fixed assessment agreement with MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. will be tried before the Supreme Court of Canada in the latter part of September, city solicitor E. A. Dinmore reported to council Monday night.

Litigations, which have gone through B.C. Supreme Court and Court of Appeal, started last year when the city attempted to collect school taxes from the company on actual assessed value of land and improvements covered by the 1945 agreement. Mr. Justice Arthur Lord upheld the city's contention that the province's Equalization of Assessment Act had abrogated the agreement.

An appeal court sitting in Victoria last January reversed the decision and council at once appealed for leave to take the matter to the Canadian supreme court.

Before taking the case to the B.C. Appeal Court, the company had undertaken to pay the city's costs in the hearing and to pay costs if the city decided to take the case to the federal high court.

City, Union Confident Strike Off

... statement expected

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell is expected to announce today that the city's 250-man outside staff has accepted a wage settlement, avoiding a strike.

Both union and city hall spokesmen yesterday were confident the workers would accept the city's latest offer at a meeting last night.

Union president William Wild refused to comment after the meeting, saying he should speak to Acting Mayor Dowell first.

Before the meeting, Mr. Wild felt sure the offer would be accepted.

"They have been very fair this time," he said. "I am just as pleased as the mayor was about Monday's meeting with a conciliation officer."

Last reported city offer was approximately nine cents an hour more. Workers then were seeking a 19-cent pay hike.

Reds Threaten:

Point-Blank Missile Bases

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev Tuesday threatened to set up missile bases in Communist Albania if the United States puts rocket bases in Greece and Italy.

He said Soviet rockets, both medium range and short range, could cover both countries from bases in Albania if U.S. missiles were permitted on their territory.

The Soviet leader spoke in Albania during a visit with Russian military and defence officials.

"If the governments of Italy and Greece permit the Americans to set up rocket bases on their territory then it is possible we will be forced to arrange with the government of the Peoples' Republic of Albania to set up something against them," he said.

"And if you put medium range rockets or even short range rockets in Albania then you will be able to cover all Italy," he continued.

Khrushchev warned Greece that if it decided to accept American missiles, "then by the same token she will force us to gather strength for a worthy answer."

IMPLIED THREAT
Khrushchev coupled his warning to Italy with an implied threat against Italian prisoners of war believed still imprisoned in the Soviet Union.

"From time to time the Italian government sends us notes asking us to say what happened to Italian soldiers who had fought against us," he noted.

"LIKE A FIRE"
"It is well known what war is. War is like a fire into which one can jump but from which it is very difficult to get out before one burns to death," he said.

"That is what happened to the Italian soldiers who burned to death in that war..."

As an alternative to building missile bases, Khrushchev proposed that the Balkan peninsula be made "a peninsula of peace" without rocket or atom weapons.

Five-Ton Trailer Van Passed Over His Body

Monday afternoon Thomas Alexander, 22, 430 Niagara, was run over by double wheels of a five-ton trailer van. Miraculously, he lived—and yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital he described his feelings to Colonist reporter Erith M. Smith.

By THOMAS ALEXANDER

Someone was looking after me.

When those two big wheels hit my body 101 things flashed through my mind. Now I can't remember any of them. I'm just terribly lucky.

They took X-rays yesterday, and today the doctor came in and told me there was no sign of any broken bones, or of any internal injuries.

I was lying right under the double rear wheel, on my back, tightening the nut in the air-brake tank. I heard the motor start, and knew what could happen. I decided to roll over and try to get out.

I rolled over all right, but that's as far as I got before the wheels caught me. They went right over, one across the small of my back, the other over the tops of my thighs.

Thoughts of Our Baby

That's when those 101 things flashed through my mind—thoughts of my wife, and our baby boy Bruce, and I don't know what all else.

Why nothing was broken, or I'm not dead, I don't know, perhaps it was because the ground-surface there at Heaney's is hard-packed dirt, oiled over, and not pavement.

At that, though, I was lying on some bricks. I just don't know.

Cloaked by Ottawa Says U.S. Report

OTTAWA (CP)—An American publication says Gen. Earle Partridge, American commander of the North American Air Defence Command, has been prevented by the Canadian government from talking to the press in this country.

It also says the Canadian government insisted that U.S. Air Force officers attached to the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., be listed as "liaison officers" and that they wear civilian clothes.

The monthly technical magazine Data, published in Washington, says its information was "submitted" to it by a ranking officer in NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command. It did not say whether the officer was American or Canadian.

NO CONFERENCE

There was no immediate government comment.

The magazine says:

"When Gen. Partridge was named as commander-in-chief, NORAD, he was held back from visiting Canada for some time by the Diefenbaker government, and when he was finally permitted to come in for purposes of protocol, paying respects visits, he was timed by the Canadians to arrive around 10 p.m., was told he could not be met by the press and that he would give no press conference."

GLARING CONTRAST

"This was in glaring contrast to the treatment accorded Americans like Eisenhower, Gruenther and Norstad who had similar relationships to Canadian elements in NATO. President Eisenhower and Gen. Alfred Gruenther are former supreme allied commanders in Europe; Gen. Lauris Norstad is the current commander."

To this date (April, 1959), Gen. Partridge has never been permitted a press conference in Canada, although he has been there several times. "He met the Canadian press only once, at NORAD headquarters, when last November the government finally permitted a press trip into the U.S. for this purpose."

At another point, the magazine says: "Under NORAD, one of the eight or nine geographical regions of defence will be the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., which will be headed by an RCAF air vice-marshal who will have an integrated staff of U.S. Air Force and RCAF officers."

'LIAISON' OFFICERS

"When Canada agreed to this, they also admonished NORAD that the more than a dozen USAF officers involved initially would come to Canada as 'liaison officers in civilian clothes.'"

"The implications were that this would be of politically dangerous import to indicate a U.S. infiltration."

Small Rate Hike In Store for Some

More than half the B.C. Power Commission customers will have a slight increase in power rates if the recommendations of the Shrum commission interim report are accepted, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan, who is also BCPC deputy chairman, says.

But, a BCPC spokesman said the increase may be only a few cents and some of the other customers would get decreases in their monthly bill.

The spokesman said that the combining of the R-2 and R-3 rates into a block rate would affect every residential bill.

Total effect would be to increase commission revenues from residential customers by 1.6 per cent, or $88,000 in the nine months of the BCPC fiscal year remaining from July 1 to March 31, 1960.

Generally speaking customers using between 300 and 900 kilowatt hours a month would get slight increases on their bills and these would vary from customer to customer and from month to month.

But, a BCPC spokesman said the increase may be only a few cents and some of the other customers would get decreases in their monthly bill.

Adjusting his camera to shoot more footage for Chemainus Chamber of Commerce movie is photographer Ted Goodell, while chamber president Jim Webster looks on at right.

Crofton There Too Movie to Boost Chemainus Area

CHEMAINUS—A small group with big ideas, good leadership and plenty of enthusiasm, can accomplish a great deal.

A good example is the Chemainus-Crofton and District Chamber of Commerce (50 members) serving the two fast-growing lumber-pulp mill communities.

In recent years, the Chamber has sparked a number of campaigns which have directly benefited the residents of Chemainus and Crofton including improvements to government wharves in both communities, considerable road work, parks development and the establishment of ferry services between Crofton-Vesuvius Bay and Chemainus-Thetis Island.

INTO MOVIE BUSINESS

Now, Chemainus-Crofton Chamber is going into the movie business.

The chamber has commissioned Ted Goodell, of Chemainus, a well-known amateur photographer, to make a 20-minute 8-mm. movie: "Chemainus and District on Parade."

The movie was the idea of Jim Webster, chamber president.

"Our idea in making this movie," Mr. Webster said, "is to promote this area as a wonderful place to live, work and play."

Mr. Webster pointed out that Chemainus and Crofton both have big, basic industries with steady payrolls. (Chemainus sawmill and logging operations, longshoring, pulp mill.) "However, we feel there is scope for secondary industries. Both communities have good harbors and are served by rail. There is plenty of water and the new B.C. Power Commission plant here assures a long-term power supply."

Taxes are low in Chemainus and Crofton, Mr. Webster added. Modern schools offer a complete education program. The climate, he continued, is moderate, with little rain and much sunshine.

The movie now being photographed by Mr. Goodell. Mr. Webster concluded, will illustrate all these points and also provide a look at some of the people, places in Chemainus and Crofton.

Ready this fall, it will be available to tourist groups, boards of trade, service clubs and private organizations and for private showings.

Any group interested in showing the film "Chemainus and District on Parade" can do so by writing to: Secretary, Chemainus - Crofton Chamber of Commerce, Box 375, Chemainus.

10 Up-Island Schools In Saturday Meet

PORT ALBERNI—Ten schools will participate in the first annual North Vancouver Island Junior-Senior high school track meet, to be held Saturday, rain or shine, on the Centennial Oval at Alberni District High School.

Heats begin at 10 a.m. and the program of track and field events will continue throughout the day with a pause for official ceremonies at 1 p.m. when principal W. F. Ramsay will welcome participants.

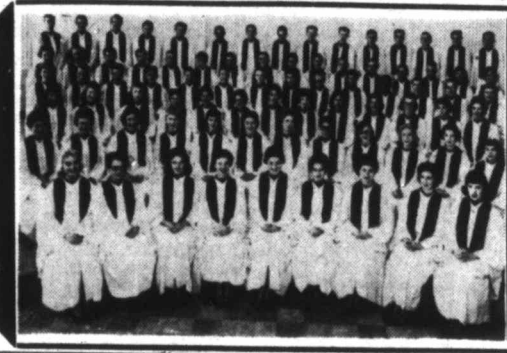

At stake in the competitions will be the Centennial trophy for the school with the highest point total, a runner-up trophy and an award to be given by Branch 55 Canadian Legion.

Competing will be students from John Barsby Junior High School and Woodlands Junior High School, Nanaimo; Parksville Junior High School, Qualicum Elementary Senior; Tso-lum Elementary-Senior, Campbell River Junior-Senior, Lake Trail Junior, Courtenay, and Courtenay High, as well as Alberni District High School and A. W. Neill Junior High School.

Shamrocks Share Runner-Up Spot

VANCOUVER—Victoria Shamrocks, battling from behind for the second straight time, defeated Vancouver Carlings, 11-9, here last night for their third straight victory and a share of second place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

Shamrocks, who started off the season with three straight losses, are now tied for second place with Carlings, and can break the tie tonight in Victoria, when the clubs meet.

Last night's score: VICTORIA 11 at Vancouver 9. Next game: tonight, Vancouver at VICTORIA.

again at Memorial Arena. Carlings are riding a three-game losing streak after winning their first three starts.

It was another uphill grind for the Irish last night, but the effective combination of speed and hustle from their rookies and fine efforts by their veterans carried them through. Down, 4-0, early in the second quarter, they rallied to tie the score, fell behind three more times, and won with a rush in the late stages.

GILL SPARKLES

Al Gill, taken to the dressing room after suffering a deep gash on his forehead in the fourth quarter, returned to the game and capped a fine night's work by passing to Jim McNeill for the winning goal with three minutes remaining. Stu Smith got the cushion goal 30 seconds later.

McNeill and Bert Bertola each scored three goals for the Shamrocks. Smith got two, bringing his total to seven in four games, and Whitey Severson, Al Davies and Tom Collett got one each. Bill Barbour and Pete Black each had two for Vancouver and Wayne Pecknold, Gord Gimpel, Bob Parry, Fred Usselman and John Coleman each scored once.

McNeill, leading scorer on the club, now has 11 goals and one assist and is sixth in the league scoring. He has been blanked in only one game as the kid line of McNeill, Collett and Jack Wilson continues to be the Rocks' top unit.

VITAL FACTOR

Geordie Johnston, still feeling the effects of a pulled tendon in his right knee, was a standout in goal for Shamrocks and his work in the fourth quarter was a vital factor in the win. In all he stopped 39 shots compared to 20 for Dave Unwin.

Bertola had his best game of the year, getting two of his goals late in the second quarter as the Shamrocks tied the score at 4-4. Black sent Carlings ahead again, but Collett scored before the quarter ended.

It was 8-8 at the end of the third quarter. Severson put the Irish in the lead early in the final period, but Barbour got his second goal with five minutes left. However, the fast-breaking McNeill took Gill's perfect pass to beat Unwin, and Smith made sure on a breakaway.

Highlights of Pages' uprising was a long triple by third baseman Stew Mitchell that sent two runners across the plate. Minutes later, Mitchell scored his club's final run for a 7-0 lead.

Wakeman - Trimble's Ron Groom gave a hitting demonstration of his own in the eighth. Groom smashed a tremendous homer over the centre field fence with a runner on base to spearhead a three-run rally.

Fastballer Des Mosley went all the way for Pages to get the win, striking out nine and allowing eight hits.

Loser was Chuck Schima who also gave up eight hits and struck out eight.

The win moved Pages into second place and evened their record a 3-3. Pages now trail Naval Vets by one game.

HARVEY HADDIX... hard-luck guy

Harv Haddix Hurls Longest No-Hitter; Loses on Home Run

Lefthander Harvey Haddix of Pittsburgh Pirates pitched a perfect game for 12 innings last night—longest no-hit game in history—but lost, 2-0, to Milwaukee Braves on a 13th-inning "rule book" double by Joe Adcock, Milwaukee's only hit.

Team	W	L	P	pts

Haddix had retired 36 men in order until the 13th, but there was to be a heartbreaking yet zany finish to a pitching performance that will go into the books as one of the greatest of all time.

Don Hoak's throwing error put leadoff man Felix Mantilla on base, and Hank Aaron was intentionally walked after Eddie Mathews had sacrificed Mantilla to second. That brought up Adcock, who lashed a pitch into the stands for what seemed to be a home run, but Aaron, after watching Mantilla score the winning run, cut across the diamond without touching third, and Adcock passed him.

Aaron's second run was allowed to count after he went back and touched third and home plate, but Adcock was held to a double.

FIRST TIME It was the first time in major league history that a pitcher had worked a perfect game for so long. Previous record was nine innings—most recently by Don Larsen of New York Yankees in the 1956 world series, and the longest previous no-hitter was 11 innings by Edward J. Kimble of Brooklyn against Toledo on Oct. 4, 1884. And while Haddix was doing all this, Lew Burdette was going all the way for his eighth victory, spacing 12 hits.

Haddix' performance, although not a complete perfect game in the purest sense of the term, will be noted in a special place in official baseball records. Several pitchers have pitched nine hitless innings—and then lost in extra innings—among them Bobo Newsom of St. Louis Browns in 1934, Tom Hughes of the Yankees in 1910, Leon Ames of the Giants in 1909 and Earl Moore of the Indians in 1901.

Lopez, a second-baseman, was hitting .281 through last night's game with six home runs and 24 runs batted in. Terry, a righthander, has been having his troubles lately and had been relegated to bullpen duty.

Lumpe is batting .206 but has appeared in less than half the Yankee games. Sturdivant is 0.2 this season and Kucks, rookie of the year in 1957 is 0.1 after an 8-8 record last year.

Yankees weren't the only team to make trade news yesterday. Washington Senators swapped little Albie Pearson, the American League's rookie of the year last season, to Baltimore Orioles for Lennis Green of Baltimore Orioles. Pearson is batting a miserable .180 compared to .292 for Green.

Bucky Harris of Boston Red Sox got into the act by announcing that he is working on a five-for-five player trade involving "frontliners," but declined to name the players or the other team.

Two Records Topple

Victoria High's Field Stars Push Them into Big Lead

Victoria High athletes, out to bring the school its 12th inter-high title in 13 years, upset the dope sheet with a strong showing in the field events yesterday as the annual city track and field meet started with six events.

It was considered by most that the Vic High team was weak in field events this year, and would have to fight off its traditional rivals from Oak Bay High on the basis of points picked up in Friday's track section. But when yesterday's events were over, the Vics had 33 1/2 points for a healthy lead, followed by Oak Bay with 23 1/2, and Esquimalt with 19 1/2.

'We'll Stand Up Straighter for O Canada'

Back home after a seven-day visit behind the iron curtain, which included a brush with Czech people's police, Victoria accountant G. Fitzpatrick Dunn admits he's more confused than ever about Communism.

"I can tell you, after my trip to Czechoslovakia with the Vancouver Board of Trade goodwill trade mission, there are 52 British Columbians who in future will stand up straighter when 'O Canada' is played," Mr. Dunn told the Colonist last night.

They found things like outboard motors are nowhere to be seen, cars are few, and a crowd of several hundred gathered to watch a demonstration of an automatic washer.

Yet in state-owned factories,

workers who increase production are rewarded with trips to attractive holiday resorts.

They saw a people who appeared sullen and morose, yet were obviously healthy. And in a society where everyone works a six-day week of 46 hours, artists and musicians are among the highest paid.

Food was good—but expensive. Beef seems to have disappeared from shops in Prague, and coffee and tea is priced away above the means of the average working man.

"It would be presumptuous of me... to attempt to speak with authority of conditions behind the Iron Curtain," said Mr. Dunn. "But at all times I felt we were being closely watched."

It turned out he was, at least on one occasion, when an over-zealous Iron Curtain cop arrested him for taking a snapshot of a bicycle race in progress. He was released two hours later amid profuse apologies.

"I must admit I was confused about communism before I left on this trip," said Mr. Dunn. "But now I'm even more confused, if that is possible. It's very difficult for a Western mind to comprehend the oppressive atmosphere where there is no competition and everything is for the state."

By contrast, France, next stop for the B.C. trade mission on its 23-day trip, was almost overpowering in the vitality of its industrial growth.

At the Renault car works, with a production line said to be the fastest in the world, a car rolls off every 28 seconds.

The group visited the Caravelle jet plant near Marseilles,

and flew in a new gas-turbine helicopter.

They visited the port of Marseilles, where in 13 years the harbor has been virtually rebuilt, after the retreating Germans in 1945 destroyed every principal dock and bridge and left hulks of 129 sunken ships to be salvaged.

And, of course, Prague night spots are "very dull" compared with Paris.

North American Congress

Mayor Berlin-Bound

Mayor Percy Scurrell and Mrs. Scurrell are on their way to West Berlin, where Mayor Scurrell will attend a special congress of mayors from all over North America.

There was no announcement of Mayor Scurrell's plans before he left Victoria.

Together with other delegates to the congress, and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Scurrell will visit some of Europe's beauty spots before returning to Victoria.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said yesterday Mayor Scurrell will return to Victoria about the beginning of July. He stressed that Mayor Scurrell was paying the cost of the trip himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Scurrell left Victoria quietly yesterday morning for Ottawa, where Mr. Scurrell will join a Victoria delegation attempting to get more shipbuilding contracts for Victoria shipyards. Mayor Scurrell will attend a convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in North Bay, Ont., May 31 to June 3, and will then fly to Berlin.

The European conference will be held June 18 to 23.

Homeowners Out in Force To Buck Alberni Dancehall

PORT ALBERNI — North Port Alberni residents turned out in numbers Monday night to protect their homes from encroachment of commerce.

Every available chair in the city hall was carried to council chambers to accommodate homeowners attending the meeting in protest against a report that a dine and dance establishment was to be opened at a McIntyre Drive address.

No application for such a licence had been received, Mayor Loran Jordan assured the delegation. He and members of council agreed that an establishment of the dine and dance order would be undesirable in the area. Licence inspector Joe Ruissen was directed not to issue the licence, if an application is received, without referring the matter to council.

Members of the delegation, who supported a petition signed by 54 householders, were told that a hot dog stand operating on the site has been licensed and there is nothing council can do at the moment to have it removed.

On suggestion of city solicitor E. A. Dinsmore, council will consider an amendment to the zoning bylaw which will give power to designate use of commercial sites.

J. F. P. Reid acted as spokesman for the delegation.

Student Council

PORT ALBERNI — George McKnight, Jr., was elected president of Alberni district high school student council in recent elections.

Others elected were Paige Brown, secretary, and Linda Warren, treasurer.

Other council positions will be filled after class representatives are chosen at the start of the fall term.

FULFORD HARBOR — Three Fulford students at Salt Spring Island High School have submitted entries in a province-wide CNIB essay contest sponsored by the IOOE.

Gladys Patterson, Duncan Hepburn and Lorraine Twa won their school's essay contest for elaboration on the slogan "Be Wise, Protect Your Eyes" and their prize-winning essays have been sent to Vancouver to compete with other entries of Grade 10 students from all over the province.

SALTFAIR — F. J. Rumble has been re-elected president of the Saltair Garden and Community Club. Other officers are: Mrs. F. Watts, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. F. R. Sadd, fair secretary.

Preliminary plans for the annual fall fair were discussed.

KYUQUOT — Dr. S. Youlten, travelling for the B.C. health department's dental clinic, has nearly completed the children's dental work here. This is the third year that the clinic has visited Kyuquot. Previously, no dentistry was done here.

PORT ALBERNI — Mrs. J. Horner was elected president of Alberni District Canadian Club at the recent annual meeting.

Other officers are: Mrs. G. Jamieson, vice-president; Mrs. A. P. Miller, secretary; Mrs. H. E. Warren, Mrs. F. G. Weaver and Mrs. F. Webster, two-year directors; Mrs. P. J. St. Clare, Mrs. J. Barnwell and Mrs. A. C. Raikes, one-year directors.

Fined $25

QUALICUM BEACH — A local construction company employee Carl Graser was fined $25 here this week after pleading guilty to a charge of making misrepresentation to gain unemployment insurance.

Magistrate Thomas Hadfield also imposed a suspended sentence on two similar previous infractions of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Best Dog

NANAIMO — Best local dog and owner at the inter-club obedience trials here Saturday night were Mrs. Frank Ney, Nanaimo, with a Weimaraner and R. Gast of Duncan with a German shepherd. Both scored 198 points in the novice trials. Best senior dog and trainer were Donah Allan and her cross-breed Dixie.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Shipping Federation and three stevedoring companies abandoned their injunction proceedings in B.C. Supreme Court Monday against Port Alberni Local 505 of the International Longshoremen's Union.

J. A. Bourne, counsel for the federation, told Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan that pickets were withdrawn and work resumed after Mr. Justice T. W. Brown granted a four-day injunction last Thursday.

The union, the lawyer said, has delivered a statement of its grievances and they will be dealt with under provisions of a collective agreement between the federation and the local.

PARKSVILLE — Regular monthly meeting of Parksville Fish and Game Association will be held at the community hall Thursday at 8 p.m.

PARKSVILLE — A large crowd of children and adults watched the crowning of pretty Gloria Parkin as 1959 Parksville May Queen by the retiring queen Diane Henstock. Attendants were Julie Nicholls and Colleen Bonar and dainty flower girls were Barbara Mayfield, Sandra Knox, Joan Mycock, Anne Milne, Janice Maber and Ann Boag. Peter Thwaites was page boy and escorts were Bill Henstock and Barry Dash.

Special guests at the Parksville celebrations were Qualicum Beach Blossom Queen Barbara Haynes and attendants, Jill Mitchell and Janet Anderson.

David Young, president of the students' council, presented a locket to the new May Queen.

Highlights of the program were clever drill exhibitions by the Duncan Majorettes, and the Parksville Majorettes. Maypole dancing by Grades 3 and 4 students and accordion selections by George Kivela of Parksville.

A colorful parade preceded the afternoon program and Parksville Boy Scouts formed a guard-of-honor for the May Queen's float. Air Force cadets set the pace for the parade and in addition to several floats there were numerous cleverly decorated bicycles, tricycles, doll buggies, wagons and costumed children.

To end the day's activities a gala May Queen's Ball was held at the Community Hall where May Queen Gloria led the grand march. A children's ball preceded the main dance.

Parade prizes were presented by May Queen Gloria Parkin to the following: Preschool, comics — Raymond Gaudreau, Tracy and Clay Carlson; pre-school, fancy dress — Peter Tranfield, Kathy McMillan; decorated tricycles or wagons — Catherine Hodgson, John Thwaites and Yvette Botfield; decorated doll buggies — Heather Johnson; best costume, open class — Gene Ann Butler, Susan Hodgson.

Decorated bicycles, grade 4 and under — Libby Thompson, Douglas Moss; decorated bicycles, grade 5 and over — Marilyn Jenkins, Spencer Anderson; floats — Parksville First Troop Boy Scouts, Parksville Junior High school.

A group prize went to the grade 5 boys baseball club and a special prize to an entry designed by Bill Pitt, Graham Baker and Alan Baker. A special mention was given to an entry by the 1959 graduating class.

May Queen

FULFORD HARBOR — Fulford May Queen Joan Warburton of Ganges and her princesses, Leona Roland and Gladys Patterson, attended a recent dance at Fulford Hall.

An interesting feature of the evening was a display of dances by senior high school students directed by James Wickens of Ganges. Among winners of merchandise prizes given away during the evening were J. Bennett, Sr.; Bill Stewart, Marshall Heiney, H. R. Nichols, Mrs. M. W. Jones, Mrs. J. Byron, Sr.; Mrs. W. D. Patterson, W. H. Bradley, Bert Clark, Fred Hollings, Dr. L. Lambert, W. Cantrell, Mrs. Deena Dempster and Walter Kelly.

Resignation

NANAIMO — Kiwanis Club members here received the resignation of secretary Clayte Swanson, who has moved from the city. Directors elected Fred Armstrong to fill the position.

NANAIMO — Funeral services will be held today at 1:30 p.m. for Mrs. Elizabeth Langdon Reed, who died here at the age of 89. She was life member of three organizations — the Women's Christian Temperance Union; the Local Council of Women, and St. Andrew's United Church Ladies' Aid. Service will be in the Westwood funeral home.

NANAIMO — MacMillan & Bloedel's Harmac mill near here has employed more than 30 University of British Columbia students to round out their university training.

Big enemy of Greater Victoria gardeners is the earwig which nibbles on tender, young shoots and mature plants.

Simple contraptions can be used to trap the earwig pests as demonstrated by Douglas Hawkes. (Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Unite, Victoria Gardeners!

Secret Scheme Afoot To Overthrow Earwig

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Gardeners of Greater Victoria, unite! You have nothing to lose but your earwigs.

City real estate man, Douglas T. Hawkes, 2713 Cavenish, yesterday released secret plans for the big putsch, formulated during recent nights spent in his garden, dusting young plants in an attempt to save them.

"If we had an earwig week and if everyone in Greater Victoria put up at least three traps each night and killed the catch in the morning, we could dwarf the population," he said yesterday.

Mr. Hawkes' secret weapon is a tin can, filled with paper, and put on top of a low post. Troops... ooze, householders using the traps would simply burn the paper in the morning.

"You can't fight them yourself because there are millions of them," Mr. Hawkes said in a conspiratorial whisper. "But by all working together we could reduce them drastically."

Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the provincial museum, had a rueful comment to make last night when asked for his opinion of the scheme.

"I have them in my own garden," he said.

An all-out offensive against the insects will only help to reduce their numbers temporarily, he warned. To be fully effective the offensive will have to be continued.

"I don't think you can eradicate them—they're spread all over the country," he added. "When you bring a new insect into a country it has no natural enemies and the population expands."

Main problem with the pests is their "caten earth" system of warfare, nibbling tender green shoots as they appear above ground level and causing many gardeners to complain about the quality of the seeds they bought.

Dr. Carl recommended a length of bamboo for a trap, but warned that the earwigs have a secret weapon of their own — they produce several hatchlings each summer.

And, he added, they CAN fly — although they seldom do.

"An offensive would have to be kept up indefinitely to make it effective," Dr. Carl warned, "and everyone would have to co-operate."

One-Hour Blitz To Aid Solarium

A one-hour blitz by the Junior League in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium will be held on the evening of June 1.

Canvassers are needed for the Langford, Colwood and Royal Oak areas and volunteers may telephone EV 5-9701, EV 5-9702 or EV 4-9301.

Proceeds will be turned over to the Solarium for maintenance purposes. No goal has been set but a spokesman for the group said, "I hope we can do as well as last year when $21,098 was collected."

Tourist Trade in B.C.

500% Increase Seen in Decade

British Columbia's tourist trade will increase 500 per cent in the next decade, Premier Bennett predicted last night.

"Then it will be our greatest industry," he said. The premier based his prediction on the great highway program completed and planned by his Social Credit government. Socreds have repeatedly mooted a $1,000,000,000 highway program in the 1960s.

"When the highways are completed we will get floods of people visiting B.C.," he said.

Cowichan Calves Bring 'Fantastic' Prices

By CHARLES THOMPSON

DUNCAN — Calves are being auctioned off here at "fantastic" prices.

Day-old Jersey feeder calves that used to sell for $1 each are now bringing from $8 to $15.

Holstein and Hereford day-

old calves are selling for from $20 to $30—two or three times what they cost at open sales a year ago.

Some farmers here say it is because a milk quota was imposed this spring, and that they might as well give their milk to calves to fatten them up as sell milk "for next to nothing" to be used for making ice cream or cottage cheese.

"Farmers on the island are reaping a harvest from cattle men outside the province," said J. T. Boyles, until two months ago Vancouver Island's only government-licensed auctioneer.

Recently I auctioned off two calves for a woman in

Cowichan who knows quite a lot about prices," he said. "She came in for her money and my secretary told her they were sold for $14."

"The woman said, 'oh, that's a good price, $7 each.' When the girl explained she meant $14 each the woman almost dropped dead," said Mr. Boyles.

"The prices are fantastic. Yearlings feeder stock going for from $90 to $150 and Jersey veal calves six or seven weeks old for $48," he said.

The high prices are caused by Cariboo, Prairie and United States cattlemen coming here to replace their herds.

"In the Cariboo they had to sell whole herds because they couldn't afford feed during the last two winters. It has been so wet they couldn't take the hay off the land," Mr. Boyles said.

And because of a drought in Saskatchewan and freak snowstorms in United States areas, B.C. has been flooded with outside buyers, he said.

Ottawa Orders During Visits

NORAD CHIEF WAS 'GAGGED'

City, Union Confident Strike Off

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell is expected to announce today that the city's 250-man outside staff has accepted a wage settlement, avoiding a strike.

Both union and city hall spokesmen yesterday were confident the workers would accept the city's latest offer at a meeting last night.

Union president William Wild refused to comment after the meeting, saying he should speak to Acting Mayor Dowell first.

Before the meeting, Mr. Wild felt sure the offer would be accepted.

"They have been very fair this time," he said. "I am just as pleased as the mayor was about Monday's meeting with a conciliation officer."

Last reported city offer was approximately nine cents an hour more. Workers then were seeking a 19-cent pay hike.

Reds Threaten:

Point-Blank Missile Bases

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev Tuesday threatened to set up missile bases in Communist Albania if the United States puts rocket bases in Greece and Italy.

He said Soviet rockets, both medium range and short range, could cover both countries from bases in Albania if U.S. missiles were permitted on their territory.

The Soviet leader spoke in Albania during a visit with Russian military and defence officials.

"If the governments of Italy and Greece permit the Americans to set up rocket bases on their territory then it is possible we will be forced to arrange with the government of the Peoples' Republic of Albania to set up something against them," he said.

"And if you put medium range rockets or even short range rockets in Albania then you will be able to cover all Italy," he continued.

Khrushchev warned Greece that if it decided to accept American missiles, "then by the same token she will force us to gather strength for a worthy answer."

IMPLIED THREAT
Khrushchev couched his warning to Italy with an implied threat against Italian prisoners of war believed still imprisoned in the Soviet Union.

"From time to time the Italian government sends us notes asking us to say what happened to Italian soldiers who had fought against us," he noted.

"LIKE A FIRE"
"It is well known what war is. War is like a fire into which one can jump but from which it is very difficult to get out before one burns to death," he said.

"That is what happened to the Italian soldiers who burned to death in that war."

As an alternative to building missile bases, Khrushchev proposed that the Balkan peninsula be made "a peninsula of peace" without rocket or atom weapons.

Five-Ton Trailer Van Passed Over His Body

Monday afternoon Thomas Alexander, 22, 430 Niagara, was run over by double wheels of a five-ton trailer van. Miraculously, he lived—and yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital he described his feelings to Colonist reporter Erith M. Smith.

By THOMAS ALEXANDER
Someone was looking after me.

When those two big wheels hit my body 101 things flashed through my mind. Now I can't remember any of them. I'm just terribly lucky.

They took X-rays yesterday, and today the doctor came in and told me there was no sign of any broken bones, or of any internal injuries.

I was lying right under the double rear wheel, on my back, tightening the nut in the air-brake tank. I heard the motor start, and knew what could happen. I decided to roll over and try to get out.

I rolled over all right, but that's as far as I got before the wheels caught me. They went right over, one across the small of my back, the other over the tops of my thighs.

Thoughts of Our Baby

That's when those 101 things flashed through my mind—thoughts of my wife, and our baby boy Bruce, and I don't know what all else.

Why nothing was broken, or I'm not dead, I don't know. Perhaps it was because the ground-surface there at Heaney's is hard-packed dirt, oiled over, and not pavement.

At that, though, I was lying on some bricks. I just don't know.

Most of yesterday I felt as if the truck was still on top of me. Today my stomach and back are still stiff and sore, but my legs feel better. My left foot is sore today. I don't know what happened to it, but they've X-rayed it too. It's all bruised and swollen.

I'm just terribly lucky—terribly lucky.

Excuse me for going on shaving while we talk. They told me I'd better—that a photographer was coming in. Nurse, did you find a comb for me?

Cloaked by Ottawa Says U.S. Report

OTTAWA (CP)—An American publication says Gen. Earle Partridge, American commander of the North American Air Defence Command, has been prevented by the Canadian government from talking to the press in this country.

It also says the Canadian government insisted that U.S. Air Force officers attached to the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., be listed as "liaison officers" and that they wear civilian clothes.

The monthly technical magazine Data, published in Washington, says its information was "submitted" to it by a ranking officer in NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command. It did not say whether the officer was American or Canadian.

NO CONFERENCE

There was no immediate government comment.

The magazine says:

"When Gen. Partridge was named as commander-in-chief, NORAD, he was held back from visiting Canada for some time by the Diefenbaker government, and when he was finally permitted to come in for purposes of protocol, paying-respects visits, he was timed by the Canadians to arrive around 10 p.m., was told he could not be met by the press and that he would give no press conference."

GLARING CONTRAST

"This was in glaring contrast to the treatment accorded Americans like Eisenhower, Gruenther and Norstad who had similar relationships to Canadian elements in NATO. To this date (April, 1959), Gen. Partridge has never been permitted a press conference in Canada, although he has been there several times."

"He met the Canadian press only once, at NORAD headquarters, when last November the government finally permitted a press trip into the U.S. for this purpose."

At another point, the magazine says:

"Under NORAD, one of the eight or nine geographical regions of defense will be the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., which will be headed by an RCAF air vice-marshal who will have an integrated staff of U.S. Air Force and RCAF officers."

"When Canada agreed to this, they also admonished NORAD that the more than a dozen USAF officers involved initially would come to Canada as 'liaison officers in civilian clothes.'"

"The implications were that this would be of politically dangerous import to indicate a U.S. infiltration."

Man Rescued From Bridge

City police scrambled atop Johnson Street bridge early this morning to save an unidentified man who is believed to have intended to jump from the bridge.

A fire truck was called to the scene to render assistance, shortly after 1 a.m., but police cornered the man on top of the bridge's huge concrete counter-balance and the fire truck was not needed.

Crew Fights Officers Over Beer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 10,000-ton Norwegian freighter Hoegh Silvercrest sailed for nearby New Westminster Tuesday night when 20 crew members returned to the ship after a three-hour walkout over a case of beer.

The walkout followed a fight between officers and crew members which was stopped by police. One seaman was taken into custody.

The fight started only 30 minutes before the Silvercrest was due to leave Vancouver harbor when the first mate attempted to confiscate a case of beer the second cook had brought aboard the ship, contrary to regulations.

Ike-Gromyko Talk Possible In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower may meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko and other foreign diplomats while they are here for the funeral of former secretary of state John Foster Dulles, it was disclosed.

The president definitely will confer with German Chancellor Adenauer.

He also scheduled a morning meeting with visiting Prime Minister Menzies of Australia.

Technicians, CBC Settle

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC and its broadcast technicians, who had threatened to strike, reached agreement Tuesday night on terms for settling their contract dispute.

The 1,273 members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians will be asked to ratify the terms.
